Reuter Lists Ulster 2nd to Apalachin

RECEIVES EPISCOPAL HAT—The Most Rev. James H. Griffiths, STD, JCD, auxiliary bishop of the Archdiocese of New York, places the zuccheto (Episcopal hat) on the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury, PA VF, during investiture ceremonies of the local pastor as a protonotary apostolic of the Roman Catholic Church held Sunday afternoon in St. Mary's Church. The Rev. Francis X. Toner, who served as master of ceremonies, stands to the right of Msgr. Drury, and (foreground) the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly, assistant pastor of St. Mary's who read the proclamation of the Papal Brief. More than 500 persons filled the church to overflowing for the ceremonies. (Freeman photo).

Challenge Issued by St. John

Nothing to Hide, DA Declares Here

Possibility that the State Investigations Commission will die in the Legislature June 30 was disclosed during a New York City television interview Sunday with Commissioner Arthur L. Reuter who also expressed the view that the Ulster County investigation was second in importance only to the Apalachin gangland convention—a statement challenged sharply this morning by Ulster County District Attorney Howard C. St. John.

It is also reported that the fate of both the Reuter commission and the Legislative "Watchdog" committee might be decided within two weeks.

Informed sources in Albany indicate that support for a five-man non-partisan State Crime Commission has "jelled" among legislators, according to a special story in the Journal-American.

No Funds to Operate

In his appearance on "Citizens Union Searchlight" over WRCA-TV Reuter was questioned by a panel consisting of Milton Borgerman, president of the Citizens Union, Gabe Pressman of NBC News and John Douglas, staff writer for the Albany Times-Union. Ben Grauer was moderator.

The commissioner told a large New York City and upstate audience that unless the Republican Legislature provided necessary funds his office would be closed down at the end of the current fiscal year, June 30.

Reuter said the commission needs $370,000, an increase of $100,000 over last year, but the amount has not been included in the budget for the fiscal year 1958-59.

He pointed out, however, that in 1956 the Legislature had included funds for the commission in a supplemental budget and expressed hope this would be done again.

Draws Comment From DA

Reuter said that his current investigation of highway kickbacks in Ulster and other counties was second in importance only to the Apalachin probe. A convention of several score mobsters was held in that small community in Tioga County late last year.

In commenting on Reuter's statement, St. John told The Freeman today that there was "no comparison between conditions in Utica and Kingston." Utica has a Democratic administration.

Editorial Cites Softness

An editorial in the New York Herald-Tribune last week chided the State Investigations Commission for its apparently soft policy in the Utica probe.

Reuter was asked during the television interview why the commission had not cooperated with the Ulster County Grand Jury, as it is doing with Grand Juries in Tioga County and Utica. He replied that in Ulster County

New Firing Try Likely This Week

Navy Discusses Readying Missile

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Frustrated by a faulty weather report, a crane operator's absence at a crucial moment of need, and a series of minor technical breakdowns, the Navy today prepared a new attempt to launch its Vanguard space rocket, possibly this week.

Discuss Schedule

A new firing schedule was under discussion in conferences between officials of the naval research laboratory in Washington, the Martin Co.—builder of the big rocket—in Baltimore, and the Air Force missile test center here.

It was conceivable that a new attempt to fire the three-stage rocket, and possibly to place a grapefruit size satellite in an orbit—might come within a day or two.

It might also develop—should the Vanguard experts find that the repeated delays have weakened any part of the sensitive vehicle—that there would be a considerable postponement.

All Kept Secret

The launching schedule is being kept secret in order to avoid too great a buildup of public interest in an undertaking that might not materialize on schedule.

The Vanguard rocket came within 35 seconds of launching last Saturday, shortly after 3 p. m.

But at that critical moment, it was learned from informed sources, the socalled umblical line—the missile's last link with the ground—failed to disconnect.

Federal Spending To Raise

Ike for Extending Jobless Pay Time

WASHINGTON (AP)—A number of new proposals were advanced today to help business and provide jobs for the unemployed. Nearly all held out the promise of heavier federal spending.

Senate Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) pointed to a government backlog of seven billion dollars, which he said could be used to speed up construction projects to aid the jobless.

Sen. Sparkman (D - Ala) said passage of a housing bill before the Senate would provide a half-million workers with regular work for at least a year.

Many for Broader Program

Their statements came amid indications many members of Congress would like to broaden the administration's plans for dealing with the recession. Calls for stepped-up federal construction, boosting the federal debt ceiling and creating government loan programs were among weekend suggestions.

While Democrats and some Republicans clamored for more, President Eisenhower ordered a speedup of government construction projects for which money is available, and announced immediate release of 200 million dollars to help make more private loans available for home construction.

Would Extend Period

Eisenhower also proposed that the federal government, for the first time, provide funds to extend the period of jobless benefits to unemployed workers. Many of these already have exhausted their rights under payment schedules fixed by the various states.

Eisenhower also asked Congress to raise the ceiling on highway spending for the next three years, and said he will ask an additional 186 million dollars for water resources projects within a few days.

Other Developments

With Senate Democtats already pushing a broader antirecession program, the weekend brought these other developments:

1. Thirteen of the 16 Democratic members of the House Banking Committee, led by Rep. Rains (D-Ala), proposed a 2½ billion dollar government loan program to permit construction of sewage and water facilities, libraries, transportation, public buildings and other works projects in labor surplus areas.

2. Eight Republican senators, without criticizing Eisenhower's program, suggested heavier spending than Eisenhower proposed and called among other things for federal aid to school construction. Many other Republicans issued statements praising Eisenhower's actions.

Cite Debt Limit Angle

3. Some House members professed to see the need for a second increase this year in the national debt limit — boosted only last month from 275 to 280 billion dollars—if bad news continues on the economic front and makes heavy federal spending necessary.

4. Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) and Rep. Simpson (R-Pa) repeated their demands for income and other tax cuts to make more spending money available.

5. The Pentagon announced actions to channel more defense money into areas suffering the

Msgr. Drury Praised As Church, Civic Leader

His leadership in parish and city compared to that of St. Paul in Tarsus, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury, PA, VF, dean of Ulster and Sullivan Counties, was invested as a protonotary apostolic of the Roman Catholic faith in ceremonies held Sunday afternoon at St. Mary's Church.

More than 500 parishioners and friends, eight monsignori, 50 priests and 100 members of the religious heard the Most Rev. James H. Griffiths, STD, JCD, auxiliary bishop of the Archdiocese of New York, trace the city's history and praise Msgr. Drury for his active leadership in community life.

Receptions Scheduled

The investiture ceremonies began a three-day celebration in observance of conferring the high church honor on the Msgr. Drury, who will celebrate his first Pontifical Mass at St. Mary's Church on Easter Sunday, April 6 at 11 a. m.

A parish reception is scheduled today at 8 p. m., and children of St. Mary's School will tender their beloved pastor a reception Tuesday at 1:15 p. m. Both receptions will be held in the school hall. Members of the parish and friends are invited.

Bishop Griffiths quoted the words of St. Paul, "I am a citizen of no mean city," and said the text was applicable to Msgr. Drury.

Traces City History

The bishop recalled Kingston's early history when it was formerly Wiltwyck through its trials with the Indians and the Revolutionary War.

Bishop Griffiths noted that the city was the seat of the first government in New York State and noted the city's stout-hearted qualities over a period of many years.

He said that the parishioners of St. Mary's Church and residents of the city enjoyed the same leadership qualities in

New Version Is Due in Albany On Court Reform

ALBANY (AP) — Legislative leaders are expected to introduce this week a revised version of the Tweed Commission's court reform plan that would retain surrogates in the New York City area and three upstate counties.

Surrogates have brought heavy pressure to bear against the commission's program because it would merge the Surrogate's Court into the Supreme Court in New York and into the County Court elsewhere in the state.

Would Exempt Some

The revised version would exempt surrogates in New York City—except on Staten Island—and on Long Island and in Westchester, Erie, Monroe and Onondaga counties.

New Director Here for Police

Lt. Kenneth E. Weidenborner, of the State Police, assigned by Francis S. McGarvey, state police superintendent, to assist in betterment of the local police department arrived at city hall before noon today to prepare for preliminary phases of the project.

Mayor Edwin F. Radel and the Board of Police Commissioners have arranged for Lt. Weidenborner to attend a board meeting tomorrow where he will be introduced to the commissioners. The board will also hear Walter A. Caddell, noted attorney, of Ossining, who is slated to talk on legal aspects of police work.

'Bishop' Holds Service While Awaiting Papers

St. Mark's Chapel, 12 Foxhall Avenue, involved before in disputes over services, drew police attention again Sunday, when services from two sources loomed in conflict.

"Bishop" S. B. Chappell, who, it was reported last month, by stipulation, had agreed to surrender the chapel, appeared there at about 10 a. m., yesterday, and the Rev. John A. Boxley, in behalf of the Congregation of St. Mark's AME Zion Church, indicated he had a service scheduled for 11 a. m.

Alone With Pianist

A police report at 10:10 a. m., said that "Bishop" Chappell, was then holding a service, "although no one was in the church but himself and a piano player."

Sgt. Julius Glassman went to the chapel and indicated he had been assured that, if conflict developed, whatever congregation appeared, would leave. Officers Joseph Kivlan, Donald Genther and Louis Sapp were also dispatched there.

An estimated 50 persons had appeared at the chapel, but an orderly withdrawal was reported after a discussion with the policemen.

"Bishop" Chappell, it appeared, was holding out pending receipt

Travel Drops On 3 Hudson River Spans

Travel over the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge last month, following a trend on all bridges under control of the New York State Bridge Authority, was far below that of a year ago, the authority noted in a recent release.

All four Hudson River spans clocked 18.70 per cent less vehicles than in February, 1957. The heavy snowstorm at midmonth was an apparent contributing factor in the marked decrease in travel.

February was the first month of comparison for the local span, which opened Feb. 2, 1957. Last year's total at the end of that month was 49,218 vehicles, against 36,503 last month, a drop of 12,715 vehicles or 25.83 per cent.

Next highest percentage decrease was on the Rip Van Winkle span at Catskill where the loss was 23.03 per cent. It clocked 60,436 vehicles against 78,520 in February, 1957.

Pardee Resigns, Bush Likely to Get Office

Robert F. Pardee, Republican supervisor of the Town of Ulster, who gave ill health as his reason, submitted his resignation Saturday.

A successor to Supervisor Pardee will be named at a special meeting of the town board, and it was indicated today that former Supervisor Percy Bush will be chosen to fill the post.

Health Is Reason

Supervisor Pardee, who submitted his resignation to Town Clerk Laura K. Every, said he was resigning on the advice of his physician for reasons of health.

He expressed "regret," but said he believed "the step is necessary" due to illness.

Supervisor Pardee, a resident of Lucas Avenue Extension where he is engaged in the real estate business, was elected to the post last November.

It was reported that Pardee has not been in good health since he assumed office and was absent from the town board meeting last Wednesday.

Await Davis Return

The resignation becomes effective immediately, but a special session of the town board to name a successor will await the return of Justice of the Peace Millard T. Davis who is ill, Mrs. Every said.

Members of the town board besides Davis are Justice of the Peace Arthur A. Reilly; Mrs. Elizabeth Acker, councilwoman; Edgar Elliott, councilman and Mrs. Every, town clerk.

Former Supervisor Bush served as justice of the peace for several years before his election to the supervisor's post in 1952.

Mrs. Every said today it could not be immediately determined when the town board will meet to elect a successor since Justice Davis may be at his home on advice of his physician for several days.

She indicated that a meeting may be called later this week, if all town officials are able to attend.

Three Are Killed In Area Mishaps, One Pedestrian

Three fatal accidents, one involving a pedestrian, were reported in the area during the weekend—two of the deaths occurring in Ulster County.

Dead:

Gerald T. York Jr., 25, Highland, pronounced dead on arrival at Kingston Hospital.

William Ballard, 36, migrant farm worker residing on the Joseph Deyo Farm, Ireland Corners.

Ronald Stino, 16, Newburgh, pronounced dead at the scene about 20 minutes after the car in which he was a passenger turned over, pinning him in soft earth.

Listed as Accidental

The deaths of York and Ballard were listed as accidental by Coroner Francis J. McCardle of Kingston. Coroner Harvey Agnew of Orange County issued a verdict of accidental in the death of Stino.

The mishap in which York lost his life occurred at 2:30 a. m Sunday on Route 9W at West Park.

Troopers Robert Van Alstyne and G. Gress of the Highland state police reported that York was proceeding south in a sport coupe when the car went into a skid off the right side of the

Recommends U.S. Lead Discrimination Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — The federal government should take the lead in efforts to halt discrimination, says Charles Abrams, chairman of the State Commission Against Discrimination.

Unless there are changes in both private and public policy, Abrams said yesterday, many members of minority groups may be frozen permanently into a class of the poor and underprivileged.

In a report to Gov. Harriman, Abrams said a relationship between poverty and discrimination has been confirmed.

The SCAD chairman's study was prepared at the governor's request. It will be discussed Wednesday at a statewide meeting in Albany called by Harriman.

Abrams said opportunities for most non-whites are far better in New York State than elsewhere in the nation. But, he said, even in this state the non-whites' general economic status is "shockingly low."

Two-thirds of the nation's Negroes live in the South and the South is the source of Negro migration to the North and West, he noted.

He urged the national executive level to use patronage and other devices to "reach and build up the more enlightened elements of the South."

Such leadership, he said, need not center on the "compulsive orcesses." But, he said, "compli-

Dulles Keeping Silent Before SEATO Meeting

MANILA (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles arrived today for the annual SEATO foreign ministers' meeting, which is expected to focus on a possible link-up with similar anti-Communist alliances in the West and Middle East.

In contrast to other ministers here for the Southeast Treaty Organization parley, Dulles declined to comment on the latest Soviet proposals or the Far East situation.

Asked whether he planned to confer with his colleague on Russia's latest call for a summit conference, Dulles said, "I came here to discuss the problem of SEATO. I expect that will occupy us fully."

Dulles told newsmen he had not seen official reports on the Russian demand for an atomic-free zone in Asia and an Asian collective security system, broadcast by Moscow Radio in an assault on SEATO. Other foreign ministers rejected both proposals speedily.

The U. S. secretary said the three-day parley, which opens tomorrow, must "strengthen further the fabric of this regional defense organization."

High on the agenda is a scheme for linking SEATO with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Baghdad Pact. The Philippines made the proposal. Britain already is opposed to it.

The ministers also will discuss the question of more economic and military aid for SEATO's Asian members.

Member nations are the Philippines, the United States, Britain,

To Forward Police Physical Exam Results to Albany

Results of physical examinations now in progress for the 37 men who passed the written civil service test for appointment to the police department should be forwarded to Albany early next week, it was indicated today.

The physical examinations have been in progress for the past two weeks.

Some 10 or more patrolmen are to be named from the next eligibility list, which will be compiled after results of the physical and agility tests are known.

Dates for the agility tests will be set by the Albany civil service office soon after results of the physical tests are forwarded. They could be taken late this month or early in April.

The 37 men taking the final tests were among 52 who took the written test. The other 15 failed to score passing marks.

NAM Heads Says Ike Proposal 'Disquieting'

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — President Eisenhower's suggestion to extend the period of unemployment compensation benefits "is most disquieting and will have to be watched closely," the president of the National Assn. of Manufacturers said here today.

Milton C. Lightner told the NAM's 30th institute on industrial relations that "no one is free from concern over the economic situation of the unemployed, but we must remember that hardship cases often produce bad laws."

Different Views Taken by Four In Church Fields

NEW YORK (AP) — Representatives of three different religious faiths have taken different views of proposed legislation to permit Jewish merchants who observe the Sabbath on Saturday to do business on Sunday in New York City.

A laymen's statement issued through the Roman Catholic archdiocese Saturday declared the bill is not a "fair Sabbath law, but rather a no-Sabbath law."

A Jewish spokesman, the Rev. Solomon J. Sharfman, president of the Rabbinical Council of America, said the measure would end "the discriminatory regulation of enforcing the religious practices of one group upon the adherents of another."

The Rev. Dr. Paul Rishell, head of the department of Christian social relations of the Protestant Council of the City of New York, said the department supports "the principle involved" in the legislation but opposes any further commercialization of Sunday.

He did not say how the two ideas can be reconciled, and added that most Protestants seem opposed to legislation that would permit more business on Sunday.

Last week the New York City Council requested the Legislature to approve a measure that would permit persons in the city to do business on Sunday if they observed another day as the Sabbath.

The council vote, 14 to 7, was divided along religious lines. Eleven Jews and three Protestants voted in favor and seven Catholics opposed the measure.

Johnson Urges Stepped Up Works Program in Nation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) testified today for an accelerated federal public works program and declared, "what we want is action—not credit, not an issue."

"We want to get rid of the issue by putting people on jobs," the Senate Democratic leader said.

Johnson was the first witness at a Public Works Committee hearing on a resolution he and 65 other senators are sponsoring to put the Senate on record as favoring a speed-up of civil public works projects.

The Texan said the resolution covered about four billion dollars already appropriated for such projects as dams, river and harbor improvements, and public buildings.

President Eisenhower announced Saturday that some already-appropriated public works funds would be released. He also called for extension of the period during which workers are eligible for unemployment insurance benefits.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said a special message dealing with extension of unemployment insurance benefits probably will go to Congress about midweek.

Hagerty replied "I just don't know" when asked whether that program will require action by state Legislatures, in addition to approval by Congress.

The grand jury reported it had not completed its work and Justice MacAffer extended the grand jury until Monday, March 17. The grand jury has been investigating alleged kickbacks to town officials. The grand jury resumed its deliberations.

Two Boys Lost on Hike Found Safely Today

LINDSAY, Ont. (AP)—Two boys who got lost on a hike were found by police today after an overnight search. They were reported missing last night.

John Hughes, 10, and Michael Kearns, 13, and their small beagle dog were found walking along railroad tracks about two miles south of here, heading home. They were tired but in good condition.

The boys became lost yesterday afternoon. They said they walked too far along an old bush road "that didn't lead anywhere." They spent part of the night wandering through a swamp until they reached an abandoned barn. They started a small fire to warm themselves.

Roads Blocked In Hunt for Killer, Rapist

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Roadblocks were thrown across every highway leading out of Miami today in the effort to snare an accused cop killer and a rapist who escaped last night from the 23rd floor of Miami's skyscraper jail.

"These men have nothing to lose," officers were warned. "Capturing them will be tough."

At large after the "human fly" breakout from the jail in midtown Miami were Norman J. Mackiewicz, 32, accused murderer of a policeman in suburban Bal Harbour, and Howard B. Picott, who is charged with the rape of a child.

They mingled with the crowds on Flagler Street and got safely away after clambering down the side of the building on a rope made of mattress ticking.

Roger Carter, 18, of Chicago, charged with slaying a bar worker, and Edward L. Kille, 27, held on a federal car theft charge, were collared in the jail-courthouse within an hour of the daring escape bid at 7:42 p. m.

Investigators said the quartet sawed through one bar of a 23rd-floor bullpen, made fast torn-up mattress ticks and inched down the northeast corner of the 26-story building in downtown Miami. The 19th through 25th floors of the jail-courthouse are used to house prisoners.

Carter kicked in a window pane at 19th-floor level, possibly in a misstep while "walking" down the side of the building, and got into the County Criminal Investigation Bureau laboratory. He hid in the building after women employes who heard the crash of glass summoned help, and gave himself up after about an hour.

Kille was captured downstairs by guards mobilizing to check the break.

Officers said Mackiewicz and Piccott, wearing civilian clothes as prisoners awaiting trial, apparently mingled with street floor passersby and vanished. They and Kille appeared to have descended on their makeshift rope to the 17th story, wriggled in a window, walked down stairways to the second floor and slid down to the street on a roller towel they found in a second-floor washroom.

No Date Fixed But Pilot Will Be Let Return

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP)—North Korea today agreed to return a U. S. Air Force pilot show down over the demilitarized zone last Thursday by Communist gunfire. No date for the release was given.

The Communist announcement came at a meeting of the Military Armistice Commission at which the U. N. Command warned it would shoot down any Red planes deliberately crossing the truce line.

Capt. Leon Pfeiffer of Kenosha, Wis., who parachuted from the stricken Sabre jet into Communist territory, was being given "humanitarian treatment," the Communist delegates said. There was no indication whether he was wounded.

The U. N. delegate, Gen. Olaf Kyster, admitted that Pfeiffer's and other American planes had violated the demilitarized zone but told the Reds it was because of "mistakes and carelessness on the part of the pilots.

The North Korean delegate charged U. N. forces had violated the demilitarized zone 588 times since the 1953 armistice to spy on Communist territory.

The Korean, Maj. Gen. Kang Sang Ho, charged that the latest U. N. violations were "along with a series of provocative acts by your side. . .in converting South Korea into a United States atomic war base."

Kyster also demanded return of the South Korean airliner hijacked in flight Feb. 16, its cargo and punishment of those responsible in accordance with the armistice agreement.

Kang in effect rejected the demand and said the airliner incident has nothing to do with the armistice agreement. Twenty-six of the 34 persons aboard the plane already have been returned to South Korea.

Bank Statements

WASHINGTON (AP) — The comptroller of the currency today issued a call for a statement of the condition of all national banks at the close of business March 4.

Settlement Seen Near on Garment Industry Issues

NEW YORK (AP)—Striking garment workers and dress manufacturers have reached agreement on money issues and appear headed for a full settlement today or tomorrow.

The ticklish problem of contract enforcement—the other major issue in the six-day-old strike—is still to be resolved.

An employer spokesman said last night both sides agreed on an 11.5 per cent package increase.

The spokesman said it includes an 11 per cent boost in base pay and a payroll deduction for severance pay of one-half of one per cent.

Agreement also was reached on overtime for piece workers—81 per cent of the workers are employed on this basis—after 35 hours.

Union officials declined to confirm or deny the reported terms.

The dispute, first major strike by the International Ladies Garment Workers Union in 25 years, has affected nine Eastern states and idled 105,000 ILGWU members.

The agreement came after two days of intensive mediation by two peacemakers appointed by Mayor Robert F. Wagner—former U. S. Sen. Herbert H. Lehman and Harry Uviller, impartial chairman of the dress industry.

The mediators joined with David Dubinsky, president of the union, and employer leaders in expressing confidence that work will be resumed Wednesday.

Lehman predicted the contract enforcement issue will be settled in the next two days.

The industry has complained that nonunion penetration and the union's failure to demand uniform conditions have forced manufacturers to cut corners as a means of staying in business.

Pre-strike wages in New York City, where 60,000 of the strikers worked, averaged $2.10 an hour. Elsewhere workers received 50 to 75 cents an hour less.

Besides New York City, the strike has affected Upstate New York, Vermont, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Rhode Island.

Search Is Pressed For Slayers of Deputy Sheriffs

COPPERHILL, Tenn. (AP) — "We haven't caught them yet. But we haven't caught them yet. But we will. We won't quit until we do."

So said Polk County Sheriff Bud Payne of the ambush slayers of two of his deputies.

Payne said he had several leads to the Saturday night shotgun killings of Louis Wright, 49, and R. A. (Bob) Rogers, 65, but not enough evidence to make any arrests.

The sheriff said he had requested aid from the Tennessee Bureau of Identification and that TBI agents were expected here sometime Monday.

"So far we've had to confine a lot of our investigation to questioning persons who were in the beer tavern when the deputies were ambushed outside," Payne said.

Wright and Rogers, the father of 10 children, were killed as they stepped from their patrol car on a routine check of the tavern on State Highway 68 about six miles north of here. Each was struck in the head by shotgun pellets.

The probability that politics may have entered into the slaying was voiced yesterday by Coppermill Mayor Emil Greene.

Polk County has been the scene of several violent incidents involving politics in past years. Election disturbances in 1948 resulted in at least three deaths and National Guardsmen were called in.

On May 11, 1951, August Lewis, chairman of the County Court, was slain from ambush. The killing never was solved. Lewis was a Democrat, and his party frequently was at odds with the Good Government League, a partisan postwar faction.

Mayor Greene said Wright was active in politics and a supporter of Sheriff Payne, who was a GGL candidate. Rogers was not active politically.

Father of Two Is Held as Kidnaper

NEW YORK (AP)—A husky father of two is being held without bail in Brooklyn as the alleged kidnaper and rapist of children.

Victor Ramondetta, 45, a Welfare Department watchman, is also being questioned about the strangling of a 12-year-old Queens schoolgirl five years ago.

Inspector Raymond Martin, in charge of Queens detectives, sent two detectives to question Ramondetta about the strangling after his arraignment yesterday in Brooklyn Felony Court.

Police said Ramondetta, who stands six feet two and weighs 215 pounds, was seized late Saturday because a 10-year-old girl gave a good description of the car in which he allegedly forced her to ride.

The girl said he took her to a cemetery and raped her there. A 7-year-old victim of a previous attack also identified Ramondetta, police said.

Taken in for questioning, police said, Ramondetta admitted raping five young girls in the past two months.

Mrs. Anthony Anastasia, 49, Dies Saturday

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Rose Anastasia, 49, wife of the Brooklyn waterfront boss, Anthony (Tough Tony) Anastasia, is dead.

A little-known, background figure in the life of her much publicized husband and his mobster brother, Albert, Mrs. Anastasia's death Saturday also went unnoticed until a family funeral announcement made it known today.

Last fall, her brother-in-law died in a blaze of gangland gunfire as he sat in a hotel barber chair.

CUTTING UP ANTARCTIC PIE—A plan for United Nations supervised joint control of Antarctica by nations claiming portions of it (see Newsmap) is being worked out by Britain (UK), Australia and New Zealand (NZ). More than an academic matter is involved. Explorations indicate there may be considerable mineral wealth under the vast snow and ice fields. The issue has lain dormant since 1948. At that time the United States suggested joint administration of Antarctica by the countries with interests there. The United States and Russia, which have staked no definite claims, do not recognize those of other nations. Newsmap shows claims of various nations and the temporary bases established under the current International Geophysical Year (I.G.Y.) explorations.

Reuter Lists

the office of the district attorney is under scrutiny.

St. John's Statement

Commenting on this today, St. John said:

"I assume that all Republicans are under scrutiny by Mr. Reuter, a Democrat. We have always cooperated with his office and have nothing to hide. Over five months have elapsed since he started his inquiry and the fact that he has not released anything to the press concerning the operations of the District Attorney's Office is indicative to me that he has found nothing of major proportion to warrant justifiable criticism.

"I intend to fulfill my constitutional duty of prosecuting all those who may violate the laws of our county."

Aims at All Republicans

"All Republican officeholders are under scrutiny by Mr. Reuter. The fact that he has not released any information indicates to my mind that he has found nothing to warrant justifiable criticism."

When Douglas asked if Assistant District Attorney John Larkin was also under investigation Reuter said he had no comment.

According to records of the Corrections Department, Larkin allegedly accompanied former Acting Lt. Governor Arthur H. Wicks on two visits to Joey Fay, a convicted labor extortioner, in Sing Sing Prison.

Private Citizen Then

St. John pointed out, however, that the visit was made five years ago when Larkin was a private citizen and said he does not feel that such visits now impare his usefulness as an assistant district attorney.

The Legislature has not approved Reuter's budget request pending study of Gov. Harriman's bill which would set up a bipartisan three-man crime commission replacing the State Investigations Commission.

The Journal-American report indicates, however, that a five-man commission may be in the cards.

The commissioner said during the interview that he thought there "are undoubtedly a great many people who don't want my office to continue, but we hope that there is no connection between that and the reluctance to continue appropriations for our office."

Reuter said he would accept service of a subpeona from Delaware County Special District Attorney Richard H. Farley to appear before the Delaware County Grand Jury in Delhi on March 19. The subpeona has not been served.

Charges Publicity

He said he felt Farley had shown poor judgment and is "looking for publicity," that he should know that under executive law "I can't testify before any investigation body or grand jury."

Farley, 28, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for a regular term as Delaware County district attorney. He was appointed to his present post.

Farley said he expects a Delaware County deputy sheriff would serve the subpeona on Reuter within a few days.

Reuter explained in reply to a question that some of the items on the agenda of the Apalachin meeting had been determined but that the prime objectives of the convention had not been established.

Case Under Study

Reuter said that the commission is still studying the case of Carmine Galente in which certain legislators were reportedly asked to intervene in a traffic violation case involving an underworld character.

He said he had discovered no direct connection between public officials and the underworld, except that in some cases they appeared to have mutual acquaintances.

The bill to establish a five-man commission is expected to have little trouble passing both the Assembly and Senate and receiving the stamp of approval from Gov. Harriman.

The proposal will be for a five-man board representing a compromise between Republican thinking and the Governor's suggenstion earlier this year for establishment of a three-man bipartisan commission.

The compromise comes in the wake of an undercurrent of charges that actions by the two existing agencies were politically inspired—that the Watchdog Committee was chasing Democrats and the Reuter Commission was after Republicans.

Ulster College Hearing Is Set In Albany, 18th

The Ulster County Community College project will be discussed by local representatives on Tuesday, March 18, at Albany with L. L. Jarvie, executive dean of the State Teachers College.

Fred DuBois of New Paltz, chairman of the Board of Supervisors Committee on Community College has been notified by Dean Jarvie of the meeting which will start at 10 a. m.

At that time he will discuss the local situation in regard to a Community College. The local committee has been working on the proposition for several months and it is now at the point where state approval for a college here becomes the next step. It is anticipated this will be one of the matters discussed.

Once state approval has been granted a board of trustees will be named to carry on in official capacity. Four members will be named by the governor and the chairman of the board of supervisors will name five trustees. This board of nine will then officially constitute the board of trustees and will be able to act in an official capacity, accept a site and otherwise carry on the college project as an official board of trustees.

5-Cent Increase Given by Knausts

Knaust Brothers Inc., area mushroom growers have agreed to a five-cent-an-hour wage increase for employes it was learned today.

The contract between management and teamster union representatives is for the additional five cents beginning March 1 this year.

Last year Knaust Brothers signed a two-year contract which was due to expire March 1, 1959. Negotiations were resumed recently under a wage reopening clause.

Under the new agreement it was also agreed to extend the contract until March 1, 1960.

Effective March 1, 1959 there will be a cost of living increase of not less than five cents an hour.

Health for All

Are You Positive?

"A drowning person always rises to the surface three times before finally sinking." Do you believe that? Are you positive?

Imagine a lifeguard watching a swimmer struggling in the water and saying, "Plenty of time to save that fellow. He's only been down once." But a drowning man doesn't take time to count. He comes up as many times as he can — or as few.

Here's another old notion some people still believe. You may have heard it: "I don't have tuberculosis. If I had TB, I'd know from the symptoms." Do you believe that? Are you positive?

You can feel perfectly healthy, and have TB. The symptoms: fatigue, loss of appetite and weight, chronic cough, fever and night sweats, indigestions, spitting blood — these are usually signs that the disease is well advanced. TB can progress quietly for months, even years, before obvious symptoms appear. The best time to look for TB is before you start to worry about it.

Feel fit a a fiddle or low as a dachshund. Either way, you should have a regular physical check-up every year. Then, if you do catch TB, the doctor is most likely to find the disease in an early stage when it's easiest to cure. The farther the disease is allowed to advance, the longer and more difficult the cure. Thousands die of TB every year because their disease wasn't found and treated in time. You can be positive about that.

Ask your TB association about the new educational cartoon film, "Are You Positive?" Showings can be arranged for community groups.

Stassen Asks Atom Police Force in UN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harold Stassen has proposed a twofold expansion of the United Nations to include a permanent atomic-armed police force and an international space development agency.

The former disarmament adviser to President Eisenhower broached the suggestions in a speech last night before a conference of the American Assn. of the United Nations.

Stassen said both proposals should be preceded by a Russian-American agreement to suspend nuclear testing for two years.

Writers Certain It Will Be Ave And Rockefeller

ALBANY (AP)—Millionaires Nelson Rockefeller and Gov. Harriman will meet in the gubernatorial election next November, reporters who cover the State Capitol apparently believe.

Staging its 58th annual dinner and show, the Legislative Correspondents' Assn. lampooned prominent New Yorkers in songs and skits Saturday night in the packed ballroom of the Sheraton - Ten Eyck Hotel.

Rockefeller, one of the butts of the reporters' satire at the $50-a-plate affair, was sized up as the Republican choice to oppose the Democrats' Harriman.

In an act burlesquing the state scene, garishly dressed Republican mobsters gather in Apalachin at the call of L. Judson "Three Finger" Morhouse, GOP state chairman.

Morhouse warns the group they have a "rumble with the Harriman tigers next fall" and some one has to rub out Ave.

Bids are put in quickly by Leonard "Legs" Hall, former GOP national chairman; Senate Majority Leader Walter "Killer" Mahoney and Assembly Speaker Oswald "Socks" Heck.

In strides "Baby Face Nelson" Rockefeller, who offers himself as "a sharp-shooting sportsman who will take up your cause against those Democratic ruffians."

With money jutting from pockets, hatband and fist, he sings, to the tune of "Thine Alone":

"Tough it's true I've never run for office,
"Down in Washington I was no prize
"Yet my name weaves a spell, much too wondrous to tell,
"To ignore it would be unwise,
"So present me with the nomination
"I'm one guy the party can't disown,
"Because I swear the Rockefeller dough
"Is forever thine alone."

As he finishes, sirens scream, guns bark and there is a yell: "roadblock."

State Police Sgt. Harriman rushes in with a band of troopers and rounds up the Republicans.

AN 'ACTING PRESIDENT'

President Eisenhower is to be commended for his effort to settle — in the absence of a constitutional amendment or new legislation—how the nation shall be governed when a president becomes too ill to perform his duties yet does not die.

His arrangement providing for an assumption of power by Vice President Nixon, in the event of presidential disability advances concretely for the first time the idea of the "acting president."

Never in history has a vice president taken the reins unless his superior has died in office. And then, of course, he has become president in full fact.

Ironically the first time that happened, when Vice President John Tyler took over from President William Henry Harrison in 1841, there was much official argument that he should simply be regarded as "acting president." But Tyler insisted he had full presidential stature, and his view prevailed.

The matter is a good deal trickier, however, as it affects a president who is still alive but unable to do his job. The Constitution says plainly that in the case of inability to perform, the president's powers and duties shall fall to the vice president. But it doesn't say who shall decide when this condition exists, or what shall happen if the ailing president gets well again.

Mr. Eisenhower now says he will decide the question of his own disability so long as he is physically able, and also will determine when to resume his duties.

If he should be unable to make the decision, Nixon is empowered to make it after "appropriate" consultation with other authorities—which could mean doctors, members of the Cabinet, and others. But, obviously, Nixon holds the key.

Should this situation ever arise, therefore, with the President finally taking back his authority, Nixon would in fact become the first acting president.

House Speaker Rayburn and some others doubt the legality of the arrangement, saying a vice president must take the oath as president and could not thereafter be dislodged from the higher post. But many constitutional experts think the oath unnecessary and approve Mr. Eisenhower's plan.

Certainly it is far better than no definition of the disability procedure at all. Until Congress, either through a new law or a constitutional amendment, shall offer a plan of its own, this one will be welcomed by most Americans as a form of insurance against the terrible confusion that otherwise might follow from serious presidential disability.

New Jersey's Governor Meyner has proposed a record high budget along with new taxes. That might cast some doubt on the report that he has presidential ambitions.

MORAL LAW, ALSO

Human beings, whether by instinct or intelligence, show in their daily lives a healthy respect for the physical laws of the universe. They know, whether or not they are clearly aware of the knowledge, that failure to act in accordance with these laws leads to trouble.

The point is easily illustrated. No man in his right mind will step off the edge of a cliff, because he knows that if he does so the law of gravity will plunge him to earth. He will not deliberately thrust his hand into flame, nor take poison, nor run headlong into a wall. Such violations of natural law must be paid in the coin of injury or death.

Many thoughtful men, including the great religious teachers, have believed that moral law is as much a part of the universe as physical law. Though our knowledge is imperfect, there is much evidence that the man who violates a basic canon of moral law invites disaster as surely as does the man who steps from a cliff.

This being so, it is only common sense for each of us to seek moral truth and try to abide by it. That is difficult, but to do less is to evade our fundamental responsibility as intelligent creatures of God.

The age of discretion is usually about midway between the age set by parents and the children's idea of the right age.

PAL

I attended a luncheon to influence newspapermen to favor PAL, the New York City police-sponsored organization, which through some 40 centers interests boys and girls in the idea that gangs could be teams and there is just as much fun. I did not think that the idea was adequately presented. It was played down, perhaps because public officials fear stating a case with adequate and truthful drama lest they be accused of giving their city a bad name.

This is bunk because when children play at murder, the situation is real bad. Also for some reason, all that those who run PAL can raise is about $750,000 a year which is chicken feed for the job that needs to be done. New York, where some women buy dresses at $2,000 a piece, can afford $5,000,000 a year for this kind of work.

After all, cops cannot go out raising subscriptions because that soon degenerates into graft and blackmail. For this an effective citizens' committee is needed with enough gumption to ask for the right amount of money to do something about the youngsters who are unwanted because of their racial and color and linguistic distinctions and who know that they are unwanted.

New York gangs have always been organized by the newest element in the population. The notorious Five Points gang of Horatio Alger's time or the Hell's Kitchen gang half a century ago was composed principally of the Irish. The Gas House and the Car Barn gangs were Irish, the latter with some Germans. There are no Irish or German gangs in New York today, just as the Jewish and Italian gangs are disappearing. These immigrant populations have been to a lesser or greater degree assimilated and integrated, to use fancy terms for a normal process of older generations dying off and the newer generations seeking to be like everybody else.

The newer population in our big cities, particularly in New York, is Negro and Puerto Rican. The latter have a particularly difficult time because Puerto Ricans do not regard themselves as Negro and reject the secondary status which is the lot of the American Negro in northern big cities. The Puerto Ricans resent the racial discrimination and the fact that they are unwanted except on Election Day when the politicians need their votes.

Because politicians are anxious to avoid offending voters, they do not face this gang problem honestly. They avoid saying that gangs are generally made up of persons of the same racial, religious, or neighborhood affiliations. The present gangs in New York are principally Negro and Puerto Rican, with a few whites intermingled by geographic accident.

The essential difference between present gangs and those of the Prohibition Era of half a century ago or a century ago is that the age of the gangsters continues to be younger. J. Edgar Hoover has, for many years, been calling attention to the fact that the criminals of the United States are constantly growing younger. These boys and girls do not get a chance to be decent. When a boy of 11 commits murder, it is a pitiful spectacle.

It is probably correct that there is not a single teen-age gang that could not be diverted into a team or a group of teams. These boys want to be active. They want to make their mark. They want to be admired by girls. They want to be heroes.

As all of my childhood was spent under conditions identical with those which nowadays shock the country, I can have some understanding of the problems that face a growing child who has nowhere to go and nothing to do. The child does not know that the real curse that has befallen him is that his parents have chosen to live in the big city where human beings are crowded into tenements like cockroaches.

What does a child do in the city? In my day, it was still possible to play on the streets but now the streets are full of automobiles. Where does a child go for companionship? It depends upon luck. Where there is a social settlement or a PAL club, the child could be fortunate. Otherwise, the gang offers interest and excitement.

So what we need is loads of money for such organizations as PAL, millions of dollars to assimilate these kids into American life.

New Industrial Materials, Methods Cause Skin Trouble

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

It was pointed out at a recent symposium held in Milwaukee that new medical problems—particularly skin problems—are constantly popping up because of changes in industrial methods.

Plastics as a cause of skin difficulty have become more important in the last 15 years. Fiberglas materials also cause skin difficulty. The increased use of soluble cutting oils used for high-speed tools has increased the risk of contact skin disorders in some industries. There are many others. Aside from the unpleasantness suffered by someone with an occupational skin disease, it has been estimated that the cost of these diseases in the United States is more than 100 million dollars a year.

THERE ARE believed to be a number of predisposing factors involved in acquiring an occupational skin disease as well as those causes directly responsible.

Any thinning or breaking of the outer layer of the skin, for example, aids the entry of an outside irritant. Pigment of the skin plays a part; those with thin, blond skin appear more susceptible to most irritants than those with dark skin.

Workers with thick, oily skin are better able to resist the irritating effects of some fat solvents, but those with hairy arms and legs and oily skin are more likely to develop pimple-like lesions from contact with greasy substances.

Perspiration usually offers some protection against skin irritants by diluting them. But excessive perspiration may encourage some form of skin irritations from solid substances.

AGE IS A factor. Apparently most workers with industrial skin disorders are young and new at the job. Their susceptibility may be because of age, because they have not become hardened to the irritant substances, or are less careful in handling them.

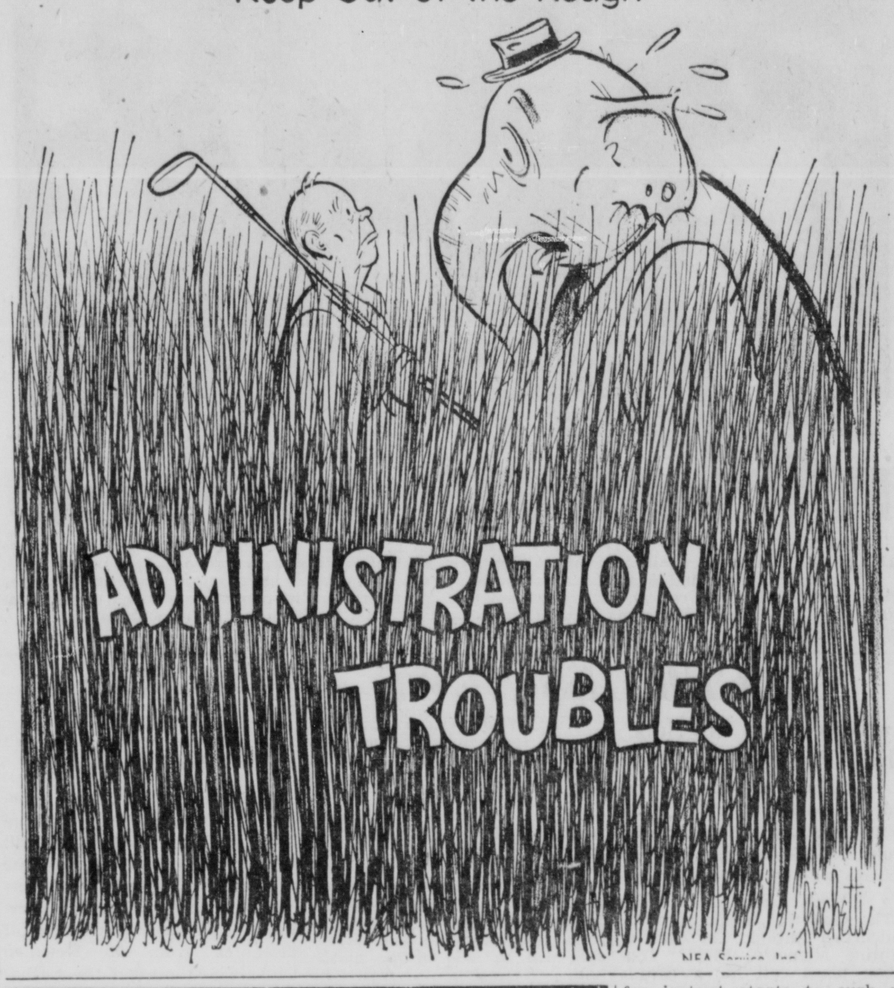

The skin of a woman, because it is drier, is more sensitive to external irritants than that of a man. Occupational skin disorders are more frequent in warm weather, perhaps because less clothing is worn and more bare skin is exposed.

One important predisposing cause of occupational skin disorders is lack of cleanliness. Prompt and efficient removal of irritants of the skin prevents their long action and therefore greatly lessens chance of causing trouble.

Of course, the cleanliness of the shop or working environment is important and periodic cleaning of walls, floors, ceilings, windows, machinery and the like are useful preventive measures.

Most industries have made extensive efforts to lessen the hazard of contact with irritating substances. If complete avoidance is impossible the use of protective clothing or ointments may help.

"This IS the Fairway, Ike---Just Try to Keep Out of the Rough"

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—"We are heading into another do-nothing session of Congress," says one Republican leader, off the record. "I have never seen politics being played harder or worse," says another.

Principal complaint of the Republicans is that with the Democrats in control of all congressional committees, the minority can't find out from the majority what the year's legislative program will be.

Two months of the present session of Congress are now down the drain. There are only four or five months to go if the Congress is to adjourn early for fall electioneering.

So far fewer than 20 public laws have been passed by Congress and signed by President Eisenhower.

They cover principally three supplemental appropriation bills, five technical tax law amendments and such things as renaming a couple of dams, authorization for the President to issue an Oregon statehood centennial proclamation and approval for a Ft. Myer, Va., monument to commemorate the first airplane flight on an Army installation.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER'S legislative program of nearly 100 specific recomendations has been almost completely lost sight of.

These recommendations were contained in the President's state of the union, budget, economic, education, farm, labor, foreign trade, foreign aid and other special messages.

Congress is now pursuing a completely independent course and taking its time in shaping the program it will enact this year.

Only one clue has been given so far on what the principal items on this Democratic program will be. At the $100-a-plate Democratic dinner in Washington, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson named 10 subjects to which Congress would give priority.

Johnson's list was largely overlooked because ex-President Truman was principal speaker at this affair. Harry's polite remarks made livelier listening and more memorable reading.

Senator Johnson's 10-point program wasn't too specific, either. He just mentioned the fields in which there would be action, without saying what the legislation would contain.

PRINCIPAL REASON for this was that congressional committees are still holding hearings on most of these subjects. On some they haven't even started. Johnson didn't want to give the impression he was dictating to Congress on what laws to write.

But this was his list, with brief, informed comments added to indicate the scope of what may eventually come out.

1. Housing — Senator Sparkman (D-Ala.) has already introduced this first bill, going way beyond administration proposals.

2. Education — It will probably include something for primary, secondary, college and university training and facilities.

3. Agriculture — It will be a congressional farm bill, ignoring many Benson recommendations, even if the President vetoes it.

4. Labor — Protection of workers against racketeers.

5. Credit-Relief — Particularly help for small business.

6. PUBLIC WORKS — Make sure there is an adequate shelf of fully planned projects ready for instant starts to curb recession.

7. Conservation — More starts on reclamation projects.

8. Foreign Aid and Trade — "Constructive action." This probably means a one- or two-year limited extension.

9. Defense — Strengthening the armed forces with some limited reorganization in the Pentagon possible.

10. Outer Space — Basic legislation to insure that the United States will have first place in future developments.

Senator Johnson deliberately left taxation out of his list, because tax legislation must always be initiated in the House of Representatives.

The principal importance of the Johnson list is that it indicates the Democrats will try to enact a program which they can present to the country in November as strictly their own. Any resemblance to White House recommendations will be purely coincidental.

Judge Hand Seen Debating Court's 'Legislative' Role

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Perhaps the most remarkable comment on the all-important issue of how far the Supreme Court of the United States shall be permitted to develop into a "third legislative chamber" has come from Judge Learned Hand, retired.

He is one of the most respected and most famous members of the Federal bench. The three lectures he recently delivered before the Harvard Law School have just been published by the Harvard University Press, and they leave no doubt that in his opinion the Supreme Court overstepped its powers in the way it ruled in the "segregation" cases.

In the last few days Judge Hand's lectures have been the subject of much favorable comment at the Capitol here among Senators who all along have felt that the Supreme Court has been usurping legislative power.

Known as "Liberal"

Judge Hand sat for many years on the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in New York City. He is known as a "liberal," but he is also known as a fearless judge who did not allow considerations of political expediency or emotional feelings to impair his reading of the Constitution or his study of the basic precedents established by the courts in previous years. In his day, Judge Hand's opinions were usually accepted by the Supreme Court because of their persuasive interpretation of the "law of the land."

Judge Hand finds himself perplexed by the decisions in the "segregation" cases. He says it is "curious" that the Supreme Court failed to mention Section Three of the Fourteenth Amendment, "which offered an escape from intervening, for it empowers Congress to 'enforce all the preceding sections by 'appropriate legislation.'"

On Court's Role

Judge Hand, after endeavoring to analyze the Supreme Courts 1954 opinion in the "segregation" cases, says:

"I must therefore conclude this part of what I have to say by acknowledging that I do not know what the doctrine is as to the scope of these clauses. I cannot frame any definition that will explain when the court will assume the role of a third legislative chamber and when it will limit its authority to keeping Congress and the states within their accredited authority."

Judge Hand says, moreover, that he "has never been able to understand" on what basis the Supreme Court adopted the view that it may actually legislate. He asks whether we should establish a "third legislative chamber," and then adds:

"If we do need a third chamber, it should appear for what it is, and not as the interpreter of of inscrutable principles."

Not by Appointment

Judge Hand, however, doubts whether any judge should be permitted to "serve as a communal mentor" and deplores any wider form of judicial review that is based on the "moral radiation" of court decisions.

Judge Hand says, in effect, that the Supreme Court these days is not following the Constitution or the precepts of the "founding fathers." If there is to be a "third legislative chamber," Judge Hand doesn't want its members serving by appointment.

He writes:

"For myself it would be most irksome to be ruled by a bevy of platonic guardians, even if I knew how to choose them, which I assuredly do not. If they were in charge, I should miss the stimulus of living in a society where I have, at least theoretically, some part in the direction of public affairs.

"Of course I know how illusory would be the belief that my vote determined anything; but nevertheless, when I go to the polls, I have a satisfaction in the sense that we are all engaged in a common venture."

Parliamentary System

This is but another way of saying that, if the Supreme Court is to write new laws and new amendments to the Constitution as, in effect, has been done in recent years, then it is much better to intrust such power to a legislative body for whose members the citizen can vote in approval or disapproval. In a broad sense, this is what parliamentary governments do. They are elected by the people and they write the "supreme law of the land."

Congress is today face to face with the issue of whether the Supreme Court as a "third legislative chamber" should continue to usurp power. Bills are pending and hearings are being held currently by the Senate Judiciary Committee to determine the limits that shall be placed by law on the power of the Supreme Court to decide certain types of cases. The Constitution explicitly gives Congress the power in certain instances to limit the authority of the Supreme Court. It will be interesting to see whether Congress will abdicate its functions by inaction or stand up for its right to conduct its own legislative business, including the power to set forth the rules that shall govern its committees in conducting hearings and inquiries so as to assure itself of the information necessary for law making.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, March 10 — A little show of steady nerve, a yell of defiance may stop a panic and turn a cowardly rout into a brave battle, possibly a victory.

Now in the recent scandalous bellow set up by a political claque because a Texas politician was trying to raise $100 a plate for the benefit of the natural gas industry, the "White House" and the Republican National Committee panicked. They not only washed their hands of the money, but repudiated the natural gas bill regardless of its merits. Nobody even suggested that there was anything crooked. But it seemed to be just naturally bad for people who put their savings into gas companies to defend those savings from confiscation.

But a few days late, Victor Riesel, a reporter specializing in intimate union matters, casually announced that his personal friend, Daid Dubinsky, the president of the Garment Workers, had spent $12,000 by a mere telephone message to New York ordering a hookup of 200 radio stations to broadcast Harry Truman's self-serving, and largely untruthful, review of his eight-year reign as President.

In this recording, Truman was given absolute freedom to justify for "posperity" every act of his from Roosevelt's death until Ike's inauguration. Truman gave himself all the breaks and falsified some facts for "posterity." Thus "posterity" will be brainwashed on some of the most unfortunate facts of a fateful time. God knows, as every journalist certainly does, that "posterity" cannot hope to learn the truth by reading the contemporary press, least of all the photo-picture and "news" magazines.

Anyway, as Riesel wrote, Dubinsky, an old socialist, pounced on this sound-track as legitimate propaganda to promote his political interests with a $12,000 special radio hookup. He didn't have to panhandle the money by selling dinners at $100 a plate. And that one chunk, so casually tossed to the winds, may have been more than the Texan raised by selling "plates."

Did anyone challenge this as an outrage? Does anyone want to study a fair comparison of the natural gas industry with the Women's Garment industry? Dubinsky's authority to dump union money into the Democratic-Socialist program is not even questioned. And the notoriously criminal nature of the garment realm is better conceded than denied.

The Texas Republican who tried to panhandle $100 a plate had frankly written that the natural gas industry wanted money to elect congressmen friendly to the proposition that a man with gas in the well is entitled to the rights of a man who has oil or coal in the ground. Oil and coal are used for exactly the same purposes. They belong to the people who own them. And when the owners sell oil and coal they have the recognized legal right to charge whatever they want to charge. Nobody uses coercion to make anyone else buy oil, coal or gas. They are to a large extent interchangeable in industries. A plant normally using gas for its acknowledged advantages, in time of gas shortage can switch burners and burn oil or coal. (Some coal nowadays comes in semi-fluid state through pipelines.) But, by a Supreme Court ruling, never enacted by Congress, the Federal Power Commission was given authority to establish the price of gas.

The point is that once the gas people are licked and tied down, then, by that precedent, the prices of oil and coal can be "fixed" by the same commission. Then what about the prices of turnips? Potatoes? Of all things that come out of the ground? Or things that come from trees?

But never, of course, clothing which comes from the terribly infested criminal areas of the industry in which Dubinsky's union has its being. The prices of dresses, of children's garments, must never be regulated by any authority except Dubinsky's union in cooperation with the businessmen of the "industry." And these businessmen include a notorious proportion of common underworld gunmen, Las Vegas and Havana gamblers and thieves generally. That is no foul aspersion. It is a fact. Dubinsky's union, too, has had a share of such vermin. Thus it was that Riesel was sentenced to spend the rest of his life in blindness caused by acid. Did anyone ever hear of such a foul, cowardly attack in the natural gas industry?

After a month of panic, the natural gas people steadied and realized that they had nothing to be ashamed of.

Their bill for relief from "regulation" was in very bad repute by now, but somehow they seem to have reached the attention of some newspapers. So the stampede quieted down and the merits of their case are being examined again. But only in whispers, of course, because by sheer noise, the gas industry has been bracketed with narcotics in the public mind.

Texans are presumed to know something about spooky cattle that go crazy in fear of ridiculous alarms. That was why the cowboys serenaded them softly in the night. This let them know that Papa was there.

But Papa wasn't anywhere when the Washington Post let out that coyotes' yell about that $100 a plate solicitation a month ago and most of the gas people are only just beginning to dig in their heels and slow down.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — You have to eat. You like to eat well. That is why, recession or no, leaders in the food industry say today they expect to set new sales records this year and to beat or equal past profit levels.

Some companies look for as much as a 25 per cent gain in their own sales volume. The industry as a whole talks of a four-billion-dollar food sales increase over last year's 75 billion.

Look for Increases

Confidence is reflected by food processors and grocery chains who say they are going ahead with expansion plans for the year and emphasizing research.

Non-food companies whose products are used by or sold in grocery stores—paper, wine, cleansers—also look for increases.

Current tonnage figures are running well above those of peak year 1957, according to the trade publication, Food Business. It looks for new sales records in the coming three months, on the basis of a poll of the industry. Some leaders feel sure this momentum will carry through the second half of the year.

"Sales thus far this year have been encouraging," says Hanford Main, president of Sunshine Biscuits, Long Island City, N. Y. He says industry sales should rise to 79 billion dollars.

Some setbacks are noted by Robert A. Magowan, president of Safeway Stores, Oakland, Cal. He cites reduced sales volumes in cities hit by output cutbacks in metals and lumber, but adds:

Won't Deter Expansions

"Nothing that has happened so far has been a deterrent to our expansion program, and we will open a minimum of 150 new stores this year."

Joseph B. Hall, president of Kroger Co., Cincinnati, says his chain will go ahead with new distributing centers, bakeries and stores as planned. The chain's sales are running 12 per cent ahead of last year. For the retail food business in general he predicts favorable sales and profit levels through the first half of the year.

George H. Coppers, president of National Biscuit of New York, reports that the industry is increasing research expenditures and development of new products.

An expanding demand for high quality foods is foreseen by Porter M. Jarvis, president of Swift, Chicago meat packers.

The nation has steadily upgraded its diet, says Charles H. Bell, president of General Mills of Minneapolis. The consumer demands better nutrition, more convenience and variety and isn't likely to change his ways in a mild recession.

Lyle C. Roll, president of Kellogg Co., Battle Creek, Mich., says Americans will continue to spend a substantial portion of their income for food. His farm plans to build a new plant this year in Memphis.

A frozen food processor, Earl R. French, vice president of Red L. Foods Corp., Great Neck, N.Y., sees as unabated the public's willingness to purchase food, "even those which to some are considered luxuries."

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—"You can communicate as well with the eyes as with words," says Sessue Hayakawa, the veteran Japanese actor. "An expression, a gesture tell much."

Hayakawa is one of the two actors in an unusual television drama to be presented on "Kraft Theatre" (NBC-TV) Wednesday (9 p. m.). In "The Sea Is Boiling Hot" he will portray a Japanese soldier, the lone inhabitant of a South Pacific island where an American flier parachutes to safety in World War II.

Challenging Role

The young American actor, Earl Holliman, plays the role of the flier. Only he speaks English in the hour-length drama. Thus Hayakawa, at the age of 68, faces one of the most challenging roles of his long career since his portrayal is confined to action, gesture and facial expression.

Hayakawa, you may recall, plays the Japanese prison camp commander in that excellent current motion picture, "The Bridge on the River Kwai."

But many forget that Hayakawa was one of the world's most popular movie stars from 1917 to 1927. His fame was international and his Hollywood salary ranged from $5,000 to $6,000 a week. From 1936 until 1949 he lived in France where he made 17 films and appeared in four plays.

Unusual Preservation

At the age of 68 Hayakawa looks as if he were in his middle forties. His dark hair is untouched by gray, his face unlined.

To what, a man asked him the other day, does he attribute this extraordinary preservation?

Hayakawa, smoking a good Havana cigar and sipping tea, smiled thoughtfully.

"I stopped counting the years when I became 45," he said. "Aging is only a matter of the spirit. It exists only in the imagination, as do so many things. The creative mind that is absorbed by many things besides its own well-being does not age. Have you ever noticed that creative people always look younger than they really are?

"It's in the mind, I say. It does not matter how long I sleep or what I eat. When a person gets little sleep one night, he usually says to himself, 'I didn't get enough sleep last night, I must be tired.' And so he is tired. His body did not need the sleep. Only his imagination did. Or the matter of food. You eat something and tell yourself it was not good for you. So you are ill. Your body rejects what your imagination tells it to.

"You make your own consciousness. You make the fears that get hold of you. Your imagination creates the emotions that wear the lines in your face. Let yourself be carried away by an emotion and you will see the lines come to your face."

As one might suspect, Hayakawa is deeply interested in philosophy, both Western and Oriental, and in comparing the basic elements in both. He lectures widely on philosophy in Japan when not engaged in acting.

Great Activity, No Action

American-Soviet Relations Immersed in Propaganda

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—It looks like an egg-throwing contest—with old eggs. Both sides are splattered in the high-level American-Russian discussions on how to hold a summit meeting.

Premier Bulganin has written President Eisenhower four letters since December. Eisenhower has replied with three. Both agree peace is wonderful. Each uses a lot of paper blaming the other side for the mess the world's in.

Others Heave Eggs

Others heaved eggs of their own from the sidelines: Secretary of State Dulles, Communist Party Boss Khrushchev, the State Department, the Russian foreign office.

So, while both sides talk of the summit, both are using the exchanges for propaganda. This may be the diplomats' idea of how to arrange a meeting. To a layman it may seem the best way to have none at all.

Bulganin Charges

Bulganin, sandwiching in topics he'd like a summit meeting to discuss, has: Charged the United States with war preparations; taken a crack at Dulles by brushing off the idea that foreign ministers should meet to arrange a summit conference; accused people in this country of calling for a preventive war; blamed this government for not squelching them.

That's just a briefed down version of all he said. He got under Eisenhower's skin. The President, knowing the whole world was reading his correspondence with Bulganin, went to great lengths to defend this country and blast Russia.

Ike Answers

He blamed the "Cold War" on communism; accused the Russians of running out on promises to help unify Germany and let the satellites hold free elections; condemned Russia for undermining nations with its 82 vetoes in the United Nations.

He needled Bulganin for being too wordy in his letters; blamed Russia for the arms race and wanting to overthrow other governments; and he told Bulganin one of his letters was just a mild rehash of a "bitter speech" by Khrushchev before a bunch of farmers in Minsk last Jan. 22.

The Conclusion

While Bulganin was writing about peace and togetherness, Khrushchev at Minsk belitted this country's efforts to launch a satellite, ridiculed Eisenhower and Dulles, and blistered the "Western imperialists" who wanted to preserve a war atmosphere in order to make money.

It seems safe to say after all this that American-Russian relations are no better and a summit meeting no nearer.

Matter of FACT

Gerardus Mercator, a Flemish mathematician and geographer, became the father of modern map making with a collection of maps he prepared. On the title page of Mercator's work, published after his death in 1595, was the figure of the mythological giant Atlas, who, according to Greek fable, bore the heavens on his shoulders. From then on a collection of maps was called an "Atlas."

INVESTMENT COUNSELING

Ever since last September when a column about vocational opportunities in the field of finance appeared in this space, I have received a steady stream of letters from those wishing to become investment counselors. Inquiries from 18 states have crossed my desk.

Today I wish to answer those queries more fully. Some have come from college students; others from customers' brokers, mutual fund salesmen, officers of corporations in unhappy surroundings, branch managers of stock exchange firms, and school executives.

As a background to this brief discussion, I should like to point out that in America the professional services of doctors, lawyers, dentists, architects and consulting engineers are taken for granted by the public. But because investment counseling is a new vocation (its legal status was established in 1940), its professional character is still generally unrecognized. However, its ethical and professional bases should (and will eventually) be ranked with the professions of law and medicine.

The investing public has never been more confused than now. Advice on how to invest money can be had at most street corners in the cities of America. Mutual fund salesmen are ringing doorbells everywhere. Customers' brokers are switching clients in and out of the market far too much of the time in their eagerness to collect commissions and to earn salaries. Investment bankers are merchandising their underwritings. Half of the letters I receive from readers of this column come from those who are confused by all this salesmanship.

In such a world, where does the investment counselor come in? Well, commissions, profits and bonuses play no part whatever in the decisions of a good counselor. And what a difference that makes! Fees for competent counseling should be just as natural as the fees collected by medical men, lawyers, architects and the like.

Bare Requirements

What must an ethically minded, professionally constituted counselor know? Many things. Here are the bare requirements:

1. The economic bases of 20 leading industries that support America's living standards.

2. The standing (financial and managerial) of 100 corporations that are leaders in these industries.

3. The ability to read the balance sheets and earnings statements of these corporations and to interpret them in the light of investors' needs.

4. The know-how in organizing investment and speculative portfolios for every type of individual and organization.

5. The judgment to make reasonably accurate decisions when portfolio changes seem in order.

In the whole realm of investment finance, no need is greater today than that of a solid core of competent investment counselors. Advice to millions of investors should be on a far higher ethical and professional plane than it is.

Many Willing to Pay

The are millions of investors willing and able to pay $100 a year for sound advice. There are thousands who will pay from $500 to $1,000. And there are hundreds whose wealth will justify fees of from $2,000 upwards.

Liberal arts students now in colleges and universities, whose work in English, economics, political economy, and accounting is outstanding, should look earnestly into this uncrowded field. Investment counseling is a creative field and it brings out all of the initiative and resourcefulness of young people. In the decades ahead, professional advice in the field of finance is going to be sought more and more.

(Q) "Soon I shall have $5,000 worth of savings bonds mature. Shall I have them extended or take the cash? I need more income."

(A) You have answered your own question. If you want 5 per cent on your $5,000, ask a broker to give you a list of sound securities that will pay your requirements.

Harry C. France will answer one letter each week through this column. If you have any investment questions, write in care of this newspaper.

UTICA (AP)—A 66-year-old woman is under arrest on an indictment charging that she operated a brothel here.

The arrest of Mrs. Helen (Ma) Davis Saturday was the third resulting from sealed indictments returned Feb. 28 by a grand jury investigating Utica crime and vice.

Mrs. Davis is charged specifically with keeping a disorderly house with disorderly conduct and with being a disorderly person, all misdemeanors.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cittadino of Utica were arrested last Monday in Miami Beach, Fla., on fugitive warrants containing the same charges. They are fighting extradition to New York State.

of official papers, which were due to be served today. The stipulation signed Feb. 24 said he had agreed to surrender ownership.

It came after hearing before Official Refree Christopher J. Heffernan, of Amsterdam, who was designated by the Appellate Division of Supreme Court to hear the case here.

The signed stipulation ended a long legal dispute in which "Bishop" Chappell held that the premises rightfully belonged to the African Union Methodist Church. It was surrendered under the order to the Congregation of St. Mark's AME Zion Church.

Lived in Basement

Some time ago, the Rev. Mr. Chappell was ordered to leave the Jansen Avenue parsonage, and he established quarters in the basement of the chapel. The AME Zion Congregation has been holding service in the YMCA pending outcome of the dispute.

It was indicated in a report Saturday that the Rev. Mr. Chappell had intended to hold services from 10 a. m., to 2 p. m., Sunday.

Dulles Keeping

France, Pakistan, Australia, New Zealand and Thailand.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd told newsmen he wanted some side discussions with Dulles on a summit conference, the Indonesian revolt and "a great many other problems."

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau said he also planned private talks on prospects of a big-four meeting. The French minister labeled the new Russian proposal for an atomic free zone in Asia as propaganda. He compared it with a similar Soviet proposal for Europe made at the time of the NATO conference in Paris last December.

Dulles' Party Gets Sprayed by Oil Spray

MANILA (AP)—Manila dry cleaning establishments—already busy polishing up dinner clothes for functions during the meeting here of the SEATO foreign ministers—reaped another bonanza today with the arrival of U. S. Secretary of State Dulles.

Just as Dulles walked down the ramp from his plane, a sudden gust of wind blew a spray of oil from the wing and engines over the large and impressive greeting party.

Recession Felt In New York, Says Dickinson

ALBANY — The economic downturn which began in the latter part of 1957 continued to be felt in New York State during January, State Commerce Commissioner Edward T. Dickinson reported today.

Commissioner Dickinson said that the Department's January Index of Business Activity, measuring the volume of goods and services turned out in the State, had dropped to 123. This was one point below December and seven points below the index for January, 1957. The index is based on 100 points for the years 1947-49.

The Commissioner noted that unemployment has risen perceptibly in the State. There were 426,000 claimants registered for unemployment insurance benefits in mid-February, compared with 418,000 in mid-January. This was an increase of 176,000 over mid-February, 1957. In the last week in February there was a further increase to 437,500 in the number of claimants.

The index showed that manufacturing employment continued to be a weak spot in the employment picture. In January, 1,814,000 persons worked in manufacturing plants. This was 56,000 fewer than December and 103,000 below January, 1957. Total non-agricultural employment in the State was 6,024,000 in January, off 253,000 from December and 28,000 less than in January last year.

Less Weekly Pay

Because of slackened manufacturing activity, production workers found little improvement in their weekly earnings compared with last January. Despite a sizeable jump in the hourly pay rate, weekly earnings were held down by a cut in the length of the work week. The January average work week of 38.2 hours was the shortest recorded since April, 1954.

At $2.14, hourly earnings were 3.9 per cent above last January for production workers, but the work week was down 2.8 per cent. Average weekly pay of production workers was $81.81 in the State, or 1.2 per cent more than a year ago. In the country as a whole, weekly earnings averaged $81.27, or 1.4 per cent less than last January.

Commissioner Dickinson noted that the real value of the consumer's dollar fell as prices climbed to a new high. In January, the United States Consumer Price Index hit 122.3, 4.1 points higher than January, 1957, and 0.7 point higher than December. This was the largest month-to-month jump since July, 1956. Food prices accounted for the bulk of the December-to-January increase. At the wholesale level, prices of commodities other than farm products held relatively stable.

Three Are Killed

highway, striking a utility pole. It then skidded a considerable distance and rolled over.

Hemorrhage Is Cause

Coroner McCardle said death was due to hemorrhage of the left lumbar region as the result of a ruptured spleen. York also suffered a fractured left femur

Ballard was killed instantly when he "staggered of fell" into the path of an automobile on Route 44-55 about a mile west of Modena at 9 p. m. Saturday, according to Highland state police.

Standing on Road

Ballard was reportedly standing on the south shoulder of the road. He was pronounced dead at the scene by an area doctor.

Coroner McCardle said the body was brought by the Pine Funeral Ambulance, New Paltz, to the Ulster County Morgue where it was determined that Ballard suffered a fractured skull, fractured left radius and ulna and facial contusions and abrasions.

State police said he was struck by a 1949 sedan operated by Albert Penrose Jenkins, 36, of Rural Delivery, New Paltz.

Passenger in Car

Stino was a passenger in a 1953 sedan operated by Philip Ciccarello, 19, of Newburgh.

Newburgh state police said Ciccarello was proceeding east on a sharp left curve when an unidentified car passed him and cut in sharply, causing him to lose control and plunge off the north side of the highway.

The vehicle continued for about 60 feet in soft dirt on the shoulder, then started rolling, coming to rest on its top. The three youths were thrown out, the car coming to rest on the upper chest and shoulders of Stino.

Dies of Suffocation

Coroner Agnew reported that Stino died of suffocation. He was pronounced dead at the scene at 11:20 p. m. The mishap occurred at 11 p. m. Sunday.

Ciccarello and a second passenger, George Turner, 18, of Newburgh, reportedly suffered minor injuries.

Card experts say that eight perfect shuffles by the riffle method will return the cards to their original order.

Area Farmers

land to conservation uses is an authorization under the 1958 program for county committee to increase annual payment rates, where such increases can be justified for land to be planted to forest trees and for whole farms retired from production.

Producer Option

Beginning in 1958 five to 10 year contracts will be offered at the option of the producer for land devoted to trees or shrubs planted for windbreak or wildlife habitat purposes. Previously, all tree and shrub plantings were under 10-year contracts only. This 10-year requirement will remain in effect for tree plantings for forestry purposes.

The Conservation Reserve Program is open to all farmers, whether or not they have an acreage allotment for "basic" crops. To participate, a farmer signs a contract with his county ASC Committee agreeing to divert a certain number of acres of cropland to conservation uses for periods of three, five or 10 years.

Based on Planting

A soil bank base is established for the farm on the basis of the average amount of land planted to soil bank base crops in 1956. Base crops can generally be classified as corn, wheat, oats or other harvested grains or row crops.

For the number of acres placed in the conservation reserve the owner must agree to reduce his total acreage of soil bank base crops. For the land diverted from crop production an annual rental payment of $12 per acre will be made for each year the contract is in effect.

$3.60 Per Acre in Ulster

In addition to the full rate annual payment of $12 for land diverted from crop production there is a provision for a lower "non-diversion" rate when other eligible land, such as hay land is put in the reserve. This regular annual payment rate for Ulster County is $3.60 per acre.

Conservation reserve practices —a number of approved conservation practices are available and the farmer may choose therefrom the practices best suited to his needs. Generally the approved practices include land cover practices which will help get a protective cover of grasses and legumes or trees or shrubs established on the land; water conservation conserve water for better land management or for irrigation of land in the conservation reserve; and wildlife habitat including cover, water or marsh improvement to conserve wildlife.

A federal cost-sharing payment will be made to the producer for establishing one of the above practices which may range up to 80% of the average cost of establishing the practice. A list of the practices and individual rates of payment for carrying out the practices are available at the ASC office.

No Hay Usage

Land designated as the conservation reserve cannot be harvested for hay or pastured during the years the contract is in effect. Owners must also agree to control the spread of noxious weeds on the designated acres.

There is no limitation on the maximum number of acres that can be banked. However, there is a limit of $5,000 on the total amount of annual payment a producer can receive in one program year.

Farmers interested in putting land under the conservation reserve may contact H. T. Wurzinger, manager of the Ulster County ASC office, 54 John Street, Kingston, before April 15.

Travel Drops

Bridge were 63,540 against 80,199, a loss of 20.77 per cent. The Mid-Hudson at Poughkeepsie clocked 222,478 against 263,107 for a loss of 15.44 per cent.

Figures, as released by John S. Stillman, authority chairman, showed a total of 382,957 vehicles clocked last month on the four bridges, as compared to 471,044 in February, 1957.

The Newburgh-Beacon Ferry, which carried 25,787 vehicles last month, against 30,222 in February, 1957, showed a drop of 14.67 per cent.

Traffic for the first half of the month, Stillman said, was generally ahead of February, 1957, indicating that the later unfavorable weather cut down use of the spans.

One supreme federal agency, Abrams said, is needed to assess the problems of minority groups. He suggested:

"A civil rights commission whose duties would include regulation against discrimination, research, education of the public and confrontation of other elements of discrimination in American life might go a long way toward the goal."

The recession, Abrams said, makes it even more difficult for members of minority groups to compete successfully with whites in economic pursuits.

New Firing Try

The crane operator who was to have been on hand for such an emergency was missing. As a result there was a costly delay.

Depends on Weather

Similarly, a "hold" or temporary delay in the approaches toward launching time was ordered on the basis of a weather report indicating high winds aloft.

A weather balloon was sent aloft. It refuted the wind forecast. Almost immediately the countdown resumed. The time loss charged to the uncertainty about the weather amounted to more than an hour.

Msgr. Drury

Msgr. Drury that the people of Tarus had in St. Paul.

Bishop Griffiths urged a continuation of that same devotion to St. Mary's parish and the city.

Receives Episcopal Hat

Msgr. Drury, who took a special oath of allegiance to the Pope, received the episcopal hat which, Bishop Griffiths indicated, had special significance in the ceremonies—a diminuation of the same hat conferred in the elevation of a cardinal.

The monsignor expressed his appreciation to Pope Pius XII from whom he received the honor and Francis Cardinal Spellman who conveyed the honor.

Expresses Love

Msgr. Drury reiterated his love and faith in St. Mary's parish and the City of Kingston.

"In spite of those who have besmirched the noble name of our fair city, I still love Kingston and all its people, both Catholic and non-Catholic alike."

The monsignor asked everyone to join with him in the prayers of Benediction to thank God for all the favors he had received from God down through the years.

Announcement of the honor, conferred by a Papal Brief by Pope Pius XII in Rome on January 7, was conveyed to Msgr. Drury by Cardinal Spellman at a meeting of the Board of Consultors of the archdiocese, to which Msgr. Drury recently was appointed.

History of Notaries

Instituted in the first century, Pope St. Clement appointed the first seven notaries to preserve for posterity the lives of the first martyrs of the church.

Certain privileges of dress and precedence and a limited use of the "Pontificalia" go with the office. The latter privilege is the most striking since, on certain occasions, the wearing of the pectoral cross, mitre and ring and other articles of ceremonial dress—usually reserved to the bishop—were prescribed for the protonotary apostolic when he pontificates at high Mass.

During the ceremonies, the Very Rev. Joseph G. Comyns, CSsR., and the Rev. Francis M. Costello served as chaplains to Bishop Griffiths. The Rev. Francis X. Toner served as master of ceremonies.

Msgr. Drury was the celebrant of solemn Benediction and the Rev. William B. Duggan served as deacon and the Rev. Francis X. Schwarz as sub-deacon.

The guard of honor included Kingston Assembly No. 275, Knights of Columbus, St. Mary's Holy Name Society, Boy Scout Troop 18 and Cub Pack 18.

Plans Advanced

greatest unemployment.

6. Directors of the National Education Assn., meeting in San Francisco, took Eisenhower to task for not including school construction in his anti - recession spending program.

Chairman Blatnik (D-Minn) of the House Public Works Committee said he would introduce legislation similar to the Johnson plan in the House.

Johnson said he had been informed that the unexpended balances of money Congress has provided for military and civilian construction stood at $7,100,000,000 on Jan. 1, the last date for which figures are available.

Johnson has proposed in two resolutions to put the Senate on record as favoring a speedup in spending this money to combat unemployment.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) said in a separate interview that a committee-approved bill aimed at giving the housing industry a $1,850,000,000 boost, if passed by Congress, would provide 200,000 additional homes this year. He said that, with kindred supplying industries, this construction would put a half million men to work for a year.

Crews Clear Derailed Freight Cars Upstate

ANGOLA (AP) — Wrecking crews worked today to clear away derailed freight cars blocking the main line of the New York Central Railroad.

Passenger trains, which bypassed the wreck scene over tracks of the Nickel Plate Railroad, were running about two hours late.

Nine cars of a 115-car freight from Youngstown, Ohio, to Buffalo left the rails near this Erie County community. No one was hurt. The derailed cars blocked the two-track main line.

The cause of the derailment was not determined.

Convictions Will Be Appealed in Oil Maps Case

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Defense attorneys say they will appeal the convictions of two men on charges of conspiring to transport stolen Gulf Oil Corp. maps across state lines.

Emanuel Lester, 34, of New York and Odie Seagraves, 73, of Houston, Tex., were convicted by a jury in U. S. District Court Saturday. Lester's brother, Edward Lieberman, 31, also of New York, was acquitted. The jury recommended mercy for Seagraves.

Lester was given a three-year federal prison term. Seagraves was fined $5,000. Lester was freed on $5,000 bond pending outcome of his appeal.

The government charged the men knowingly dealt in oil exploration maps stolen from Gulf's headquarters in Pittsburgh.

Will Offer Billboard Control Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Neuberger (D-Ore) said today he will offer a billboard control amendment this week to legislation seeking to speed up the nation's road-building program.

The regulation would apply only to the 41,000-mile superhighway network—the interstate system—now under construction to link up all parts of the country.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME (Registered U.S. Patent Office) By JIMMY HATLO

Mr. Fall Guy's Plight

By FRANK TRIPP

Mr. Fall Guy just sits back and wonders. It is about things over which he has lost control — in a country where the people rule. And he concludes, what a wonderful life, if they ruled wisely.

He is all mixed up about everything, and is beginning to lose faith. Yet knows that he must not, because that would be the end of all that makes life worth living.

Frank Tripp

By complacency or greed, or a lot of both, Mr. Guy has plumped himself into a muddle that involves his home, his job, his children, his very freedom and the safety of everything dear to him.

He swapped control of his life and future for depreciated dollars, plus the hours he has wasted in so-called leisure. He is just beginning to see that he has paid double for all that he has demanded; has lived it up and created an economy and a debt that make him and his posterity dependent upon an uncontrollable hierarchy that translates the laws of country, nature — even God—to suit its determination to stay in office and hold power over his life and earnings.

THE TRUTH is beginning to dawn upon him that he did it all to himself by apathy or by demanding more than his labor can produce; by falling for the fallacy that more can be taken out of a barrel than is put into it.

Sure, he got more dollars—sucker dollars—worth 51 cents. To get them, along with shorter hours and less production, he forced thousands of thriving little concerns and promising industries out of business; or into monster consolidations, so impersonal that he looks upon them as his enemy, a source from which to drain the last drop of blood—his own blood—the sap.

Almost all of his 51-cent bucks goes back into barrels; the barrel at the factory where he works and the pork barrell in Washington. He forced himself to pay $2,950 for what once was a good $1,350 automobile, or double for a used one; 45 bucks for a one-time $22 suit; $10.50 for a $4.50 bag of groceries; $14,000 for a $4,500 house.

UP TO THAT point it might have been argued that he was just handling more so-called dollars, but he let something worse happen to him. He exposed himself as a pawn for power-mad labor czars and political bureaucrats.

They have taken him to town—on a wagon-load of phony dollars. The one determining for whom, for how much and when he shall work; the other controlling how much he shall keep of the rubber money that he earns.

Combined they are the composite control, depository, banker, spender and waster of the nations' earning power—the keepers of the Holy Grail, moulders of the lives and future of 170 million people, the creators of inflation—and its 51-cent dollar.

HOW COME? Why, Mr. Fall Guy has a vote. He'll vote for anything or anybody that promises him something for nothing—something bought with his own money, plus 40 per cent for "administration" on its way through the pilfered, wasteful channels of the "workers' benefactors."

Mr. Fall Guy pays it all in prices and taxes, he is beginning to discover—if he hasn't. God help America.

God, please help anyway, because the exploited people of a free country have become so deceived by "something for nothing" that their awakening will strain their faith.

And should they lose their faith in You, that would be the end of all.

Special Series on Consolidation

Kingston's Role Under Enlarged School Plan

What Is It?

There has been a great deal of discussion lately about the proposed "Greater Kingston Consolidated School District." A committee was formed to explain the proposal to the people of the rural area which surrounds the city of Kingston. A great many meetings have been held in the rural area to explain consolidation.

On February 4, 1958 the Commissioner of Education ordered that the twenty-five rural districts be joined together as a legal unit. These districts voted in favor of consolidation March 5, 1958. Consolidation was thus passed in the rural area by a vote of 2166 to 763 (37 void).

Issue Is Vital

It is now time for the people of the City of Kingston to determine their position on this most important issue. Meetings will be held to discuss this question and you are encouraged to attend these meetings. However, since many people in the city may not be able to attend these meetings, a series of short articles explaining the Consolidation question and its effect on the educational affiairs of the Kingston City Schools will be published serially in The Kingston Daily Freeman.

The term "Enlarged City School District" is used in the law to designate the district which is formed when those rural school districts which surround the city join with that city school district to form one large school district. The formation of such a school district in the case of Kingston is referred to as a "consolidation."

The proposed Greater Kingston Consolidated School District would consist of the present Kingston City Schools and 25 rural school districts which surround the city. This new district would be governed by a single board of education, elected by the people of the entire area and would be under the supervision of one superintendent of schools. The single large district would provide equal educational opportunity for all students of the district and would apportion the cost of the educational program equally among the taxpayers of the district. A single transportation system would be operated by the central board of education with one set of rules and regulations governing the transportation of the entire district.

Vote Date April 2

The Board of Education of the Kingston City Schools will call for a vote on consolidation April 2, 1958. Since this is a most important decision for the Kingston area, the parents, patrons and voters of the school district are urged to inform themselves on the question, attend meetings as scheduled and read this series of articles keeping an open mind until such time as they may be convinced of the manner in which they choose to vote. Information will be given as to time and place of voting in the press and on the radio in sufficient time for each voter to make the necessary arrangements.

Liz Taylor Predicts Retirement This Year

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor, a top contender for this year's Oscar as best actress, said today that 1958 will probably be her last year as a movie queen.

"My husband (Mike Todd) doesn't want me to be an actress," she told a reporter. "And I don't want it either."

She currently is making "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" at MGM, the studio where she made her first picture in 1942 — "Lassie, Come Home."

She is under consideration for an Academy award this year for her role in "Raintree County."

Do You Remember by Sophie Mille

In the World Almanac of 1945 is a listing among the famous American painters of Jarvis S. McEntee. I have the Kingston Argus of Wednesday, Feb. 4, 1891 in which there is an account of his death.

It reads in part: "Jarvis S. McEntee, the artist, died in Kingston, Tuesday after an illness of two months. Mr. McEntee was born in Rondout in 1828, and at an early age gave evidence of the artistic instinct that in after year brought him great distinction. He was most successful as a delineator of northern scenery, especially in its more sombre aspects."

It further states: "Aside from being an artist, Mr. McEntee was also a poet by nature. He wrote several poems, some of which were published in the Knickerbocker Magazine and other periodicals of a quarter of a century or more ago. The deceased was married in 1845 to Gertrude, daughter of the Rev. T. J. Sawyer, D.D. then of New York City, but now of Boston, Mass. His wife died about 12 years ago. They had no children. The funeral services were held at his late home on Chestnut Street Friday afternoon. A number of prominent persons from New York and other places with whom the deceased was acquainted came to pay their respects. Among them were Professor John F. Weir, of Yale College; Downing Vaux and wife; B. Vaux and wife, Calvert Vaux; J. W. Pinchot; Thomas E. McEntee, of Clark's, a former resident of this city and cousin of the deceased; James Gifford, of Hudson, a brother of the late Sanford R. Gifford, the artist, and his wife. Services were conducted by the Rev. J. G. Van Slyke, D.D. of the First Reformed Church. S. R. Gifford, the artist, is also listed in the World's Almanac.

Winter in February of 1891 is not given too much space in this paper, so perhaps it was not too severe. One item reads: "Saturday afternoon the steamboat, Norwich, went up the Rondout Creek as far as South Rondout and broke the ice, which drifted with the tide into the Hudson river. The ice jam above Wilbur has worn away a great deal and the channel is now said to be clear from Eddyville to the mouth of the creek. This has relieved the minds of a great many people who have been fearful that the ice would go out with a rush, doing much damage."

One little item at the bottom of the page shows that they had storms on the east coast then too. "The awful and inextricable tangle of telegraph and telephone wires left by the storm on the Atlantic coast, and the fact that New York City was without police and fire alarm facilities for several days, will set people to thinking anew whether the overhead system of wires is the best that can be devised."

This item may interest some of the high school students: "College journalism originated at Dartmouth in 1800, Daniel Webster being editor of the paper. There are now 190 college papers in the United States and only one in England." This from the Kingston Argus of 1891. From same paper: "In England an electric lamp has been exhibited which lighted itself when darkness came on and extinguished itself when daylight or another strong light was brought into the field. The lamp is worked by a selenium cell on the principle that the strength of the current varies with the intensity of the light falling on the selenium." They had smart people in those days, too. That would make a good present day hall lamp.

Shandaken Man Fined $50 for Reckless Driving

Karl W. Fichtner, 26, of Shandaken, operator of a car which was involved in an accident last January 4, on the Phoenicia-Mt. Tremper road, entered a plea of guilty to reckless driving before Justice of the Peace William P. Malloy of Phoenicia on Thursday.

Judge Malloy imposed a $50 fine, 10 days in jail and placed Fichtner on probation for six months and the jail sentence was left unexecuted for the period of probation. The fine was paid.

Fichtner drove the car which went out of control on Route 28 about two miles east of Phoenicia and turned over. Henry Maben Jr., 20 of Phoenicia and Donald Ballard, 23, of LaGrangeville, were seriously injured. Ballard suffered a crushed right leg and was severely burned by burning gas and Maben received a fractured skull, broken leg, brain concussion and cuts and bruises of the body. Fichtner received lacerations of the head.

State Trooper Charles H. Bundschuh, who made the arrest, reported the car had left the road, struck a utility pole and turned over coming to rest on its roof.

Fichtner, who had been held under $100 bail for appearance before Judge Malloy, entered the plea of guilty to reckless driving on recommendation of his counsel, Fred Stang. The district attorney's office was represented by William D. Brinnier.

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON

PURCHASING POWER

Suppose a crackerjack counterfeiter made phony money so perfect that nobody could tell it from Government money. Suppose he was never caught and issued to the auto workers as much green goods as the total wage increase Walter Reuther wants.

Would that help make the country prosperous?

MR HUTTON

They could buy automobiles with it, couldn't they, and groceries and gasoline? The queer jack would change hands like the real McCoy as no one could tell the difference. That would surely stimulate trade, wouldn't it?

Why put such a public benefactor in jail?

The short answer is that while he is putting millions of "dollars" in circulation, he is not making any automobiles, or anything else.

Money is worth nothing unless it is balanced by goods for sale.

When wages go up faster than goods produced, the economic effect is the same as the funny money of the counterfeiter. Legal money, issued by Government, may do the same thing as in the disastrous inflations in Germany, Greece or China. It was not "counterfeit," but it wiped out the savings of millions of people.

This "purchasing power" nostrum of labor leaders is one of the oldest fakeroos in the world.

When strikes compel industry to raise wages faster than productivity, it is a forced transfer of dollars from all buyers to a group of workers. Neighbors, it doesn't add a dime to the total purchasing power of the nation.

My son, four, and little Helen next door, three, are great friends. But one day my son approached Helen's mother with one of those looks that said he felt there was something she should know, but he didn't know how to say it.

Then, evidently feeling "duty before courtesy," he blurted, "Helen doesn't talk right. She says 'Wook' instead of "Yook.'" —Mrs. E. B. Neisuler.

About an hour after the children had been sent to bed, dad heard Billy, the youngest, screaming at the top of his lungs.

Dad rushed upstairs and into the nursery.

Dad — What's the matter, Billy?

Billy—Johnny scared me-e-e!

Dad—How?

Billy—He said a big bear was goin' to get me.

Dad—That's nonsense. There are no bears within a hundred miles of this house. Go back to sleep like a good boy.

Dad returned to the living room, relit his pipe and settled down with his book. Almost immediately there was renewed yelling from the nursery.

This time dad took the stairs two at a time. It sounded serious.

Dad — What's wrong now, Billy?

Billy—Ow-w-w-w! Johnny says that a hungry bear can run a hundred miles in five minutes.

Tired of Retirement? Try Campaigning for Mayor

By BEULAH STOWE

A retired Army colonel found himself a job as Chamber of Commerce director in a resort city. A former oil company employe now serves as justice of the peace of his home town. And the retired oookkeeper of a meat packing plant is the new mayor of his community.

"I have held office as a member of the city council, traffic officer and mayor during the 14 years since I 'retired'," says Mr. Walter C. Sullivan, 79, "and I have found working for my town more satisfying than any job I held in industry.

"You see, I'm a full-time public servant on a part-time salary," Mr. Sullivan explains. "Because I have a pension, I don't need the salary a young man with a family would expect. And because I can give a full work week to my civic duty, I can do better at it than the man who is trying to run his drug store with one hand and the village with the other. Most of the mayors here have been businessmen who had two jobs to do."

How can the retired man get a job as a public servant? I asked Mr. Sullivan

"He can ask for the appointive jobs, if he is a substantial man who has earned the respect of the right people. He can run for the elective job, like mayor, if he is convinced he could do it well. Then he can convince other people they should vote for him."

Mr. Sullivan's advice applies to the small cities and suburbs, of course, not to the large cities.

The retired man can serve his community selflessly. He seeks no personal or business gain. He's not going anywhere, he's been. He has no other master. He can bring to his office the wisdom of 65 years or more. And a civic job can reward him with added income and new enthusiasm.

Injured Lion Tamer Back to Face Attacker

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Pat Anthony returned to his circus lion taming act yesterday and faced down the lioness who sent him to the hospital Friday.

It took more than 100 stitches to close the fang and claw wounds on his left arm. The arm still was in a sling and practically useless when he returned to the cage after missing three performances.

Tension mounted at the point in the act where the lioness went on her rampage. She was supposed to leave her perch and join five other big cats in a line lying on the floor.

Anthony cracked his whip and shouted. The lioness lunged off the perch toward him. He dropped his whip, flipped a white barrel on its side and rolled it toward her, took up his whip again, snapped it at her and shouted some more.

The lioness wheeled and ran to her place, still snarling.

Anthony got an ovation from the crowd of 12,000 at the Hamid-Morton show sponsored annually by the Kansas City Police Department.

Report Agreement On French Troop Base Control

TUNIS (AP) — President Habib Bourguiba is reported to have agreed to the first step of a compromise plan that would allow French forces to remain in control of the big naval base at Bizerte.

The Tunisian President demanded that all French forces get out of his country after the French bombing of Sakiet Sidi Youssef last month.

But under the plan reportedly worked out by U. S. Conciliator Robert Murphy, the French would pull their forces back to Bizerte and leave neutrals guarding French airports to insure that they would not be used by Algerian rebels.

North Alone Is Blameless?

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

South's bidding was very bad. With a solid seven-card heart suit he had no reason to attempt to find a four-four fit in spades.

Eventually when North went from six hearts to six spades South realized the error of his ways and rescued himself to six no-trump.

This left West with quite a problem as to his opening lead He was quite sure that South had meant to get to six hearts and since he, West, was looking at three little hearts the heart suit would undoubtedly come in for South. It looked as if two fast diamond tricks might be necessary and West opened the deuce of diamonds.

South could have played the king from dummy but who would imagine an underlead of an ace against a slam. South played low. East also couldn't imagine the underlead. He played the eight and South's ten won the trick.

South proceeded to make seven because he had 12 top tricks in the other suits and West was indignant.

"I don't blame West. He had made a wonderful lead but I can't blame East too much either. The play of the eight was mighty tempting and it should not have cost him game, slam and the rubber.

For the benefit of the many readers who have written about the Dec. 31, 1957, hand North should have held three spades and three clubs. The error was mine although actually I should blame the bridge gremlins who haunt me occasionally. Thanks to all of you.

New Version Is

counties are the most populous upstate.

The revised plan makes several other changes in the commission's version, most of them minor or technical.

It was drawn up last week and circulated quietly among legislative leaders of both parties over the weekend.

Viewed As Fatal

The opposition of the surrogates to the original plan has been viewed in some quarters as potentially fatal to the entire court reorganization plan.

The revised version is designed to reduce that opposition and clear the decks for action at this session of the Legislature.

Court reform is one of several major problems facing the Legislature as it moves into the stretch drive for adjournment.

Legislative leaders would like to wind up business on March 22, but most concede they will have to go beyond that date — probably to March 29.

On the Agenda

In the next three weeks, the lawmakers must deal with:

1. Unemployment insurance. GOP leaders expect Harriman will sign their new compromise bill raising top weekly benefits from $36 to $45.

2. Workmen's compensation. Some influential Republicans want to send Harriman the same benefit-boosting bill he vetoed twice last year. Others want to compromise on a measure raising the ceiling from $36 to $45.

3. Primary election and state conventions. Republicans have been pushing legislation that would schedule both for August. Harriman agrees on holding the party nominating conventions in August but wants the primary set for June.

4. School aid. The GOP majorities are expected to announce this week details of a plan for increasing state aid for education by about 50 million dollars a year.

Manslaughter Charge

BUFFALO (AP) — A first-degree manslaughter charge has been placed against Arthur Jones, 37, who police accuse of beating a man to death in an argument over money.

Police say Jones has admitted hitting the victim, Hannibal E. Mason, 45, in Jones' room Friday night. They said a three-foot table leg was the weapon. Jones was charged Saturday.

Some cooks like to use both chili sauce and catchup in a sauce for seafood along with prepared horseradish, Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice and Tabasco sauce.

Indonesia Troops Invade Coast

SINGAPORE (AP) — Indonesian central government troops stormed ashore today at Bengkalis on the east coast of Central Sumatra, revolutionary sources said tonight.

The sources said rebel troops of Lt. Col. Achmad Hussein clashed with the invaders but retreated into surrounding jungle to begin guerrilla activities.

Near Singapore

The landings were made about 100 miles west of Singapore at the mouth of the crocodile-infested Siak River leading to the American-owned Caltex oil field headquarters at Pakanbaru.

Informants said 4,000 more troops were crammed aboard transports awaiting to land at Dumai, one of the two Caltex oilfields evacuated today on the advice of the Jakarta government.

An executive of Caltex, after returning from Jakarta, said the company was shutting down production in the oil fields on the advice of the central Indonesian government.

He said the company is evacuating the women and children among the nearly 400 Americans at two fields, Dumai and Pakning.

The Betchel Construction Co., which has 250 Americans building a pipeline and road from Dumai to the south, will remain on the job, however, the executive said.

Caltex's 125 million dollar installations have been sandwiched between the contending sides. The Caltex executive said the company was determined to remain neutral. He would not discuss the battle between the rebels and the central government.

Report Is Heard From Britain on World's Geniuses

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Almost all of the world's geniuses have been alcoholics, narcotic addicts, tubercular or mentally unstable, says a former president of the British Royal Society of Medicine.

Dr. V. B. Green-Armytage said in an interview yesterday while here to address the international congress of surgeons that his four-year study of genius showed:

"Practically all geniuses were under 5 feet 3 inches in height.

"Nearly all were either impotent or had little sex instinct.

"Almost none produced offspring of genius stature.

"There have been no women geniuses.

"There is no doubt that defective parentage has something to do with the creation of genius."

He said short-statured geniuses including Lrod Nelson, Shakespeare, Picasso and Einstein, and among tubercular geniuses were Voltaire, Chopin, Moliere, Euclid, Raphael, Schiller and Shelley.

"It is interesting," Dr. Green-Armytage said, "that most tubercular geniuses produced their best work about six months before death."

As for his conclusion that there have been no classic examples of women geniuses, he said:

"God or Providence provides women with one factor of creative genius: to have babies."

Dr. Green-Armytage said geniuses possibly resort to alcohol or narcotics for the added stimulus it gives them to attain a "diamond" personality which is unattainable in non-geniuses.

Observing that medical science is making great strides in conquering disease, Dr. Green-Armytage said:

"The quantity of genius is bound to deteriorate or lessen."

Stratton Charges Keating 'Ran Out' On Slated Debate

SCHENECTADY (AP) — Democratic Mayor Samuel S. Stratton today charged Republican Congressman Kenneth B. Keating with "running out" on a scheduled debate Saturday.

The two were to have met at Skidmore College for a discussion on the national economy.

The debate was not held.

Rep. Keating addressed a meeting of the college's Young Republican Club but did not meet Stratton.

When notified by a newsman of Stratton's remarks, Keating said he had informed the college Thursday he would not be able to participate in the debate. He was back in Washington today.

Keating said the college misrepresented him in announcements the debate would be held.

The congressman said that he called off his plans to participate because of previous commitments. He also said he did not wish "to get into any name-calling contest."

The mayor said today that "as late as noon Saturday, representatives of Keating were trying to arrange details of the discussion."

Stratton commented: "When a member of Congress gets so big that he refuses to discuss the primary topic of the day with a run-of-the-mill mayor, the people should know about it."

Mrs. Wiegert suffered injuries of the nose, knees and lacerations over the eyes.

WHAT IN THE WORLD? — Air view records a surrealistic impression of the New York Central's newly opened 14-million-dollar Robert R. Young Yard, named in memory of the railroad company's late president. Covering 675 acres and stretching for four miles just west of Elkhart, Ind., the electronically controlled freight yard, called the most modern in the world, is expected to pay for itself in three years by reducing the Central's operating expenses some $4,750,000 annually. It contains 96 miles of track with a total capacity of 7,873 cars and has such advanced features of electronic automation as a closed circuit television network, a magnetic memory which memorizes destination of each car, analog computers, electric eyes and radar. The magnetic memory, when called upon later, automatically routes each car onto the correct one of the 72 classification tracks (above) on which outbound trains are built.

Local Hospitals Are Named on Accreditation List

All three Kingston Hospitals—Benedictine, Kingston and Ulster County Tuberculosis — were reported on the annual list of accredited hospitals released today by the Joint Commision on Accreditation of Hospitals.

There are approximately 7,000 hospitals eligible for accreditation but Dr. Kenneth B. Babcock, commission director pointed out that the omission of a hospital from the list did not necessarily mean it had failed to pass an accreditation survey. The accreditation program is a voluntary one and only those hospitals which request surveys are visited.

Some Exceptions

Some hospitals may not have requested surveys. Hospitals with less than 25 beds are, with rare exceptions, not eligible for accreditation.

The commission surveyors rate a hospital on certain basic requirements such as: a safe physical plant free from fire hazards; proper supervision and review by the medical staff of the clinical work done in the hospital; maternal, infant and anesthetic death rates that are not excessively high; adequate medical records; ethical practices; investigation of all tissue removed at operation; mortality rates that are within reasonable limits; proper nursing care; proper administrative and medical staff organization.

Student Nurses Angry, Fence Bars Boy Friends

BRAINTREE, England (AP)—Student nurses of Black Nottley Hospital serenaded head nurse Genevieve Durrigan with "Don't Fence Me In" via Radio Luxembourg but the fence is going to stand.

A spokesman for the 17 pleading girls said they're mad because six feet of barbed wire has been thrown up around their living quarters to keep out their boy friends, including a number of U. S. Air Force men.

Secretary Arthur Hadfield of the hospital management committee told a newsman that prowlers have been found near the quarters for the 54 student nurses and "every possible step must be taken to keep the intruders out."

Fitzsimmons Explains Phase Of Law on Dogs

Following up the discussion on laws relating to stray and unchained and untagged dogs which occupied the attention of the town board last week, Supervisor Joseph Fitzsimmons today called attention to several phases of the law.

The state Agriculture and Market Laws' Section 116 deals specifically with the killing of dangerous dogs, Fitzsimmons said, quoting it as follows:

"If a dog shall attack a person who is peaceaby conducting himself in any place where he may lawfully be, such person or any other person witnessing the attack may kill such dog while so attacking and no liability in damages or otherwise shall be incurred on account of such killing.

"If a dog shall attack, chase or worry any domestic animal, as defined in Section 107 of the A & M law, while such animal is in any place where it may lawfully be, the owner or caretaker of such domestic animal may, for the purpose of preventing the killing or injury of such domestic animal, kill such dog while so attacking, chasing or worrying or while being pursued thereafter, and no liability in damages or otherwise shall be incurred on account of such killing.

Complaint Procedure

"Any person may make a complaint of such an attack upon a person or of such an attack, chasing or worrying of a domestic animal to a justice of the peace of a town or to a village police justice or, if within a city, to a magistrate, and any such justice shall inquire into the complaint upon written notice of not less than 3 days in a city, not less than 5 days in a town, to the owner of the dog, if the owner be within the territorial jurisdiction of the court.

If satisfied, from such inquiry, that the dog is a dangerous dog, such justice or magistrate shall order the owner, if within the territorial jurisdiction of the court, and if not within such jurisdiction, then any peace officer, to kill the dog immediately; or may order the owner securely to confine such dog during a time to be specified in the order. If the owner fails to kill or confine the dog as required by such order, any peace officer or a designated representative of the commissioner shall kill such dog on or off the premises of the owner."

"A careful study of these provisions of the A & M laws as they relate to dogs will help clarify the law for the citizens of the township," said Fitzsimmons. "I urge every citizen to study them carefully."

Fischer's Plea Is Innocent in Case Of Drunk Driving

Charles Fischer, 36, of 22 Mary's Avenue, arrested Sunday night on a charge of driving while intoxicated after a two-car accident on lower Broadway, pleaded innocent today before City Judge Aaron E. Klein, and his case was put over until Tuesday night.

A police report at 8:11 p. m., noted that Fischer was convicted on a like charge in August, 1953. The arrest Sunday was by officers James Burns and Thomas Kearney.

Fischer's car, police said, headed south on Broadway, swerved into the car of Sophie W. Basch, of 102 Hone Street, driven north on Broadway by Meyer Weiner, 39, of 129 O'Neil Street.

The case was put over until Tuesday night to permit Fischer time to obtain counsel.

State Income Tax–I

Parents of College Students To Get Additional Allowance

By JAY HOLMES

ALBANY (AP)—If you are supporting a son or daughter in college, you may gain new relief in your state income tax this year.

For the 5½ million individuals who must file tax returns by April 15, this is the most important change in the law.

Claim Doubled

Taxpayers now may claim $800, instead of $400, as an exemption for each dependent over 18 who is in full-time attendance at an approved school or college.

Another change effective this year grants an exemption for sick pay received under a wage continuation or insurance plan.

This change, however, actually restricts the amount of benefits granted to taxpayers. Under a state ruling last spring, thousands of taxpayers won refunds of taxes they paid on 1954, 1955 and 1956 sick pay.

Exemption Limited

The new law limits the exemption to $100 a week and makes pay for the first seven days of illness usually taxable as normal income. The exemption applies in most cases only to pay received for illness extending beyond a week.

Otherwise, the rules for filing your income tax return are about the same as last year.

You must file a return on 1957 income if you:

1. Had net income of $1,000 if single,
2. Had a joint net income of $2,500 if married, or
3. Had gross income of $5,000.

Most residents of the state have the choice of two forms, the long form IT-201 or the short form IT-200.

Short Form

The short card form is easier to fill out, but it has no place to itemize deductions. If your deductions total more than $500 or 10 per cent of your income, it may be worth while to spend the time on filling out the long form.

If not, you probably can fill out the short card form in a few minutes, mail it with a check and forget it.

Whichever form you use, you should make certain you claim the proper personal exemptions.

Personal exemptions are flat amounts you may subtract from your income, according to the number and status of the members of your family, before you figure your tax. They should not be confused with deductions, which are itemized only on the long form.

Single Allotment

If you are single and do not provide the major share of anyone else's support, you are entitled to claim a $1,000 basic exemption.

If you are married, or if you are the head of a family, you may claim a $2,500 exemption for the first two members of the family and $400 for each additional member.

For instance, if you support a wife and two children, there is a $2,500 exemption for you and your wife and $400 for each child, a total of $3,300. If you are a widow supporting three children, your also have $3,300 exemption—$2,500 for yourself and the first child and $400 for each of the others.

For each of your children who is over 18 and in college, the exemption as mentioned above now is $800 instead of $400.

Over 65

If you are over 65, or if you are blind, you are entitled to an additional $400 exemption. If you are both blind and over 65, the additional exemption is $800. If you are married and living with your spouse, your spouse also is entitled to a $400 exemption if over 65 or blind.

One condition is attached to the exemptions for the aged and the blind, however. They are reduced by the amount that their gross income exceeds $6,000.

When both husband and wife have income, it is important to consider carefully whether to file separate returns or a joint return.

No Income-Splitting

Unlike the federal government, New York State does not provide for "income-splitting" between husband and wife. This means that there usually is no special advantage, as under the federal law, in filing a joint return.

On the contrary, separate returns are preferable. The reason is that, if the wife's income is added to that of her husband on a joint return, it would be taxed at a higher rate.

This is because New York State has a "progressive" tax rate. The first $1,000 is taxed at 2 per cent. The next $2,000 is taxed at 3 per cent and the rate for each subsequent $2,000 goes up 1 per cent until the maximum 7 per cent rate is reached.

May Share Exemption

In some cases, it may be of advantage for a couple to share their exemption and standard deduction when filing separate returns. State law allows them to do this, so long as the total does not exceed the amount they would have claimed if they had filed a joint return.

The exemption for sick pay may be claimed on both the long and short forms.

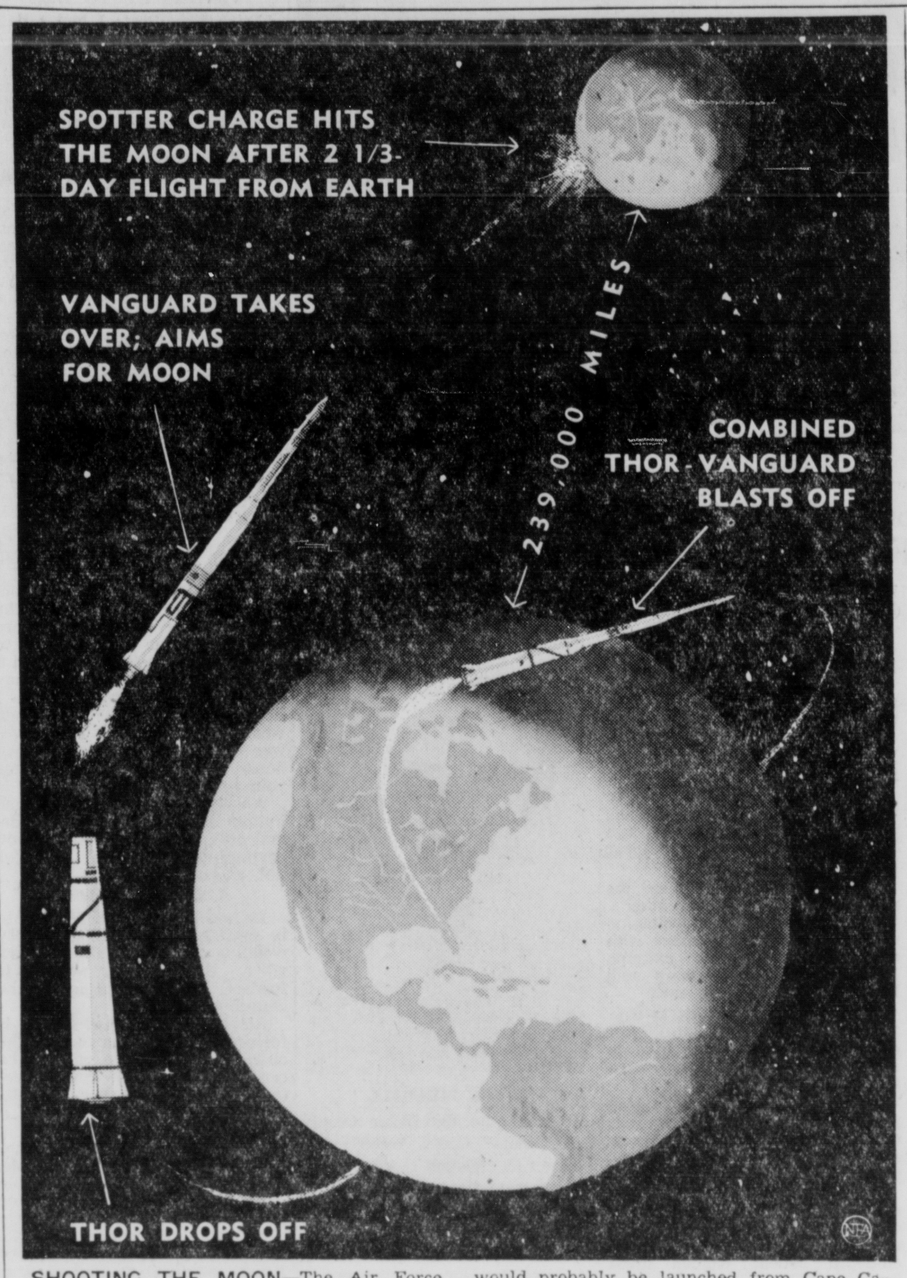

The New York State law is identical with the federal income tax law on sick pay. Any money paid for a time when an employe was ill and unable to work is exempt from taxation with these provisions:

List Provisions

1. It must have been paid under an insurance policy or an employer's policy, with the rules for payment established in advance.
2. The pay for the first seven calendar days of illness may not be excluded unless the worker was hospitalized for at least one day.
3. The maximum exemption is $100 a week. It is $20 a day for employes who work five days a week.

The exclusion of the first seven days and the $100-a-week limit apply only to benefits financed by an employer. All benefits received under insurance policies financed by an individual employe are tax free.

Next: Your Deductions.

SHOOTING THE MOON—The Air Force, according to Lt. Gen. D. L. Putt, believes it can hit the moon with a rocket this year provided the project receives an immediate go-ahead. Putt, Deputy Air Force Chief of Staff for Research, told Congress that the attempt would be made with a combination of its Thor intermediate missile and the Navy's Vanguard. Artist's drawing above shows how the flight might be made. The combined Thor-Vanguard would probably be launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla. The Vanguard would take over once the massive Thor had carried it far out into space where the pull of gravity is almost negligible. In order to hit the moon, Vanguard would have to go seven miles a second, the speed needed to break away from the earth's grasp. That's roughly 25,200 miles an hour, compared with the estimated 18,000 miles an hour which Explorer and Sputnik II are traveling.

FBI Chief Warns:

U. S. Freedom Is Still Facing Soviet Threat

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover appeals to Americans today to keep up their guard against a conspiratorial Communist movement which "has been and is engaged in an all-out war against American freedom."

Tremendous Danger

Despite convulsions, flipflops, defections and setbacks, the Communist party's hard core in the United States still is a vast reservoir of spy material posing a "tremendous and present danger" to American security, the director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation warns in a new book, "Masters of Deceit," published today. (Henry Holt & Co.)

When the party was founded in 1919 by a rag-tag group of grotesque revolutionaries on the Bolshevik model, it planted an infection which, though limited to a relative few, could spread dangerously, Hoover says.

"Something utterly new has taken root in America during the past generation, a Communist mentality representing a systematic, purposive and conscious attempt to destroy Western civilization and roll history back to the age of barbaric cruelty and despotism, all in the name of progress," the FBI director writes. "Evil is depicted as good, terror as justice, hate as love, obedience to a foreign master as patriotism."

U. S. Can't Wait

The attempt to create a "Communist man" will fail, Hoover says, "but we cannot afford the luxury of waiting for it to run its course," because its weapons become more formidable as guards are lowered.

Moscow normally tries to separate the party from spy activities, Hoover says, but the party's thousands of members still play an important role in Soviet espionage.

"The party is doing much to prepare the way for Soviet espionage and, when the need arises, will unhesitatingly supply vital assistance," Hoover says.

Warns of Hysteria

Hoover sketches Communist tactics, legal and illegal; its attempts at infiltration of labor groups and mass organizations, its use of fronts and a Communist infighting which "is vicious and utterly devoid of moral principle." He tells Americans how to spot such activities and how to counter them.

But Hoover warns that while citizens can help the FBI in its unending battle against the Communists, there must be no "hysteria, witch-hunt and vigilantes," which he says will do more harm than good. He warns also that the fight must be waged with regard for "the historic liberties of this great nation."

Doctors Warn Picking Spreads Warts! New Discovery Removes Warts Quickly

Amazing New Compound . . . Used at Home . . . Removes Warts Safely Without Cutting or Burning

New York, N.Y. (Special)—Medical science has linked warts with a contagious virus that may spread them to all parts of the body. Doctors say picking at warts increases the danger of spreading and urge that they be removed as quickly as possible.

Now science has discovered a new substance that removes these growths safely . . . without danger of cutting, burning or infection. This substance, in easy-to-use liquid form, dissolves warts, leaving normal, healthy skin.

Reports show this liquid can be safely used at home, even for children. There is no pain, no ugly scarring.

In cases observed by a leading New York skin clinic, this liquid proved its ability to penetrate the wart, destroy its cells, and cause the wart to fall apart and disappear.

The name of this new liquid is *Compound W. It is now available for the first time without prescription at drug counters everywhere for just 98¢. Compound W is guaranteed to remove warts or money refunded.

Suggest Spraying Spruce Trees Now

SYRACUSE — Spray your spruce trees now if you want to prevent an attack of spruce gall aphids!

That's the advice given this week by Dr. Howard C. Miller, assistant professor of Biological Science and Forest Extension Entomologist and Pathologist at the State University College of Forestry at Syracuse University.

Before Buds Open

"Spraying is best in late March or early April, when the weather starts to get warm — that is, before the buds begin to open," Dr. Miller adds.

Spruce galls, caused by plant lice, destroy both the health and beauty of common ornamental spruces. Galls will curl, stunt and kill new growth. Continued infestation will make spruce more susceptible to attacks by other insects and plant diseases.

Newly-hatched aphids, feeding at the base of spruce needles, produce the galls. This feeding enlarges plant tissue which, finally, surrounds the developing insects. Once they are inside the galls, spraying is useless.

What to Do

Dr. Miller suggests two dormant spray formulas:

One includes lime sulphur, with one part to nine parts of water. The other is made of one gallon of miscible oil to 25 gallons of water.

These sprays — especially the oil mixture — may temporarily destroy the bloom or waxy coating on the needles, but the original color returns within a short time.

"Lime sulphur should not be used near painted surfaces, which are discolored when in contact with the chemical," Dr. Miller recommends.

A four-page leaflet, "Spruce Gall Aphids," giving detailed information about spraying, may be obtained free of charge by writing to:

The pamphlet is the first in a series of leaflets the State University College of Forestry at Syracuse University is distributing this spring. Colorfully illustrated, the booklets are designed to provide the public with authoritative, up-to-date information on tree insects, fungi and plant diseases.

The entire series is an integral part of the extension program of the College of Forestry.

HOW TO CUT THE TOLL OF MENTAL ILLNESS

The difference between those who become mental patients and those who do not is often found in the words "understanding" and "early treatment."

Many tensions we experience are normal accompaniments of everyday life. But if severe upsets come too often or last too long, they may be warning signals of illness. Understanding our tensions and early attention to more serious disturbances can help prevent many from becoming sick.

For an approach to better mental health and advice on what to do when help is needed, send today for the new free booklet called "How To Deal With Your Tensions." This booklet, compiled by psychiatric experts, offers eleven simple, easy-to-follow suggestions that may help you lick excessive tensions and live a happier, fuller life. Write today to: Better Mental Health, Box 2500, New York 1, New York.

REMEMBER -- This picture was taken over 30 years ago on a very historic occasion. In September of 1927, the first ocean-going tank ship loaded with Fuel Oil for The Newcombe Oil Company, docked at Kingston Point. Its name was the S.S. West Camp Couples Plan Clam Chowder Sale on March 21

Arrangements for a Lenten clam chowder sale Friday, March 21 headed a variety of projects outlined at the meeting of St. Paul's Lutheran Couples Club Saturday night at the parish hall.

Also planned is a disc jocky dance program the second meeting after Lent and a spider web to which the public will be invited.

President Daniel Wynne reported on plans to prepare 200 quarts of clam chowder for the annual Lenten sale. The sale has been a complete sellout each year and those who neglected to order the chowder in advance were disappointed, he said.

Customers will be required to bring their own containers for the chowder or pay a deposit for the jar. Orders are being taken now on both Catskill and Saugerties telephone exchanges.

Customers for Catskill may call Mrs. John Engelin at Cementon and Saugerties patrons may phone Mrs. Daniel Wynne at West Camp.

A roller skating party is scheduled for the next meeting by Albert J. Cawein, program chairman.

A Lenten program was presented by the Rev. Alvin F. Messersmith, pastor of St. Paul's Church prior to the business meeting. The pastor showed a filmstrip with accompanying recorded commentary on the "Symbols of the Church."

A pizza party followed. Mr. and Mrs. Engelin and Foster Winchell Jr., prepared the pizza.

Chemise Causes Controversy Among Starlets; Sophia Loren, Ronda Fleming Not in Accord

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Chemise or not chemise—that is the question.

Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer the slings and arrows of outraged males, or to take up arms against the new sack look decreed by Paris. The controversy rages among women everywhere, and that includes Hollywood.

A cross-section of opinion from the style-setting glamor girls indicates that not all of them are taking the chemise to their bosoms. You find as many cons as pros.

Italian Sophia Loren wears 'em and likes 'em.

"I think they're very elegant," says she, adding this bit of philosophy: "A girl doesn't have to show her figure to be sexy. She is much more tantalizing if she doesn't show it."

Militant in the anti-chemise camp is Rhonda Fleming. She argues: "This isn't a controversy; there is only one side to it. I have yet to meet anyone who approves. Why should women go through all the suffering they do in dieting and exercising to build a lovely and attractive figure, then cover it up with a sack?

"I think it's an insult to the intelligence of the men for whom women dress attractively. I would not be caught dead in one of the things. The battle cry should be: 'To blazes with the sack, let's get the figure back!'"

Jean Simmons is less violent, but sympathetic to Rhonda's campaign. Her view:

"If anyone can get away with the sack vogue, it is the tall, slim girl with very little lines. Personally, I don't care for the style. But if my husband (Stewart Granger) likes it, I'll wear it.

"Frankly, I'm not worried, because I don't think the vogue appeals to men."

Ah, but the pro-chemise crowd has a formidable ally in Kim Novak. She argues: "It looks as though the style is here to stay. We might as well go along with it."

She says that she adjusted to the new style easily because she wore chemise-like dresses in two recent films about the flapper era.

"I find myself liking them the more I try them on," Kim admits. "There is a free, easy feeling to wearing them. Most of them, with the exception of the extreme Paris models, can be worn with belts if you tire of the sack."

Shirley Temple has this to say: "They're not for me. But I must admit that I am getting used to seeing them, and on some women they can look good.

"I don't think any style is good for every woman. A woman has to find out what is best for her in shape, style, length and everything and stick to it."

My cross-section included some males, all of whom were violently opposed to the chemise. If nothing else, the sack seems to prove the oft-heard notion: Women dress for women.

IT WAS UP TO HER

Dear Mrs. Post: I had a date with a girl to go to a movie and when I arrived at her house I found two of her girl friends had dropped in unexpectedly to see her. She greeted me and asked me to come in and sit down. I thought she would tell her friends that we were going out but she never said a word and I was forced to sit around all evening listening to their conversation. Wasn't it up to her to tell them she had a date and ask them to leave?

Answer: Upon their arrival she should have said to them, "Oh, I'm so sorry you came tonight. I'm going out this evening with John!" She could have added, "Won't you come in until he arrives," and then when you came, she should have said to you, "I'll be ready in a moment," as she went to get her coat. The others would take their cue and leave.

Gloves on Shipboard

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper to wear gloves on board ship when wearing evening clothes? I have just recently returned from a cruise and the night of the Captain's Dinner everyone wore evening clothes. I was all set to put on long sleeve gloves when a friend of mine told me that they were not proper on shipboard. I have always thought that when wearing evening clothes gloves wer proper—even in one's own house. Will you please give me your opinion?

Answer: Gloves have become optional except for the most formal occasions. On shipboard you certainly could wear them or not, as you preferred.

A Military Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married shortly at a military wedding and would like to know where the arch of swords is formed. Is it formed inside the church or outside?

Answer: The arch of swords is formed either at the foot of the chancel steps at the end of the ceremony, or, if the couple prefers, outside—weather permitting.

Foreign Newsman To Lecture on The Netherlands

Jeff P. van den Bogaert, director of the Netherlands Information Service, will speak on the "Netherlands Today" at an open meeting sponsored by the YWCA Women's Club at Bethany Chapel, Old Dutch Church, 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

He was attached to Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Forces (SHEAF) which was under the command of General Dwight Eisenhower, as a war correspondent. After the war, he managed the Netherlands' government news agency which corresponds to our Associated Press, at Batavia, Dutch East Indies. He arranged fo the nationalization and disposition of this agency to the new Indonesian Republic in 1949-1952. He also surveyed a plan for commercial radio and television in the Netherlands for the Dutch government.

Originally, Mr. van den Bogaert had been scheduled to talk to the Women's Club at the YWCA. Public interest in his lecture however forced the Women's Club to seek a larger auditorium so that the meeting could be opened to the general public. Therefore, the Women's Club accepted the invitation of Old Dutch Church to use Bethany Hall and is inviting the general public.

"I love that little island," interposed Ingrid, 40, whose romance with her now-estranged husband, Italian movie director Roberto Rossellini, developed on the volcanic isle of Stromboli.

Report Artist Dying From Tribal Curse

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Australia's famous aboriginal artist, Albert Namatjira, today was reported slowly dying from a tribal curse.

The Sydney Daily Mirror said that many people in Alice Springs, where the artist is hospitalized, believe that Arunta tribesmen "pointed the bone" at him—an ancient aboriginal method of doing away with offenders.

The bone is pointed in a special ceremony and the victim traditionally weakens and dies.

Namatjira was admitted to the hospital about eight months ago after he had burned his left hand in his camp fire while sleeping.

The Mature Parent

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Experiences As Child Can Affect the Role of Parent

In the fifth grade Mr. F. had a rough time with grammar. One day when he called a noun an adverb, his teacher said, "When I think of what a fine student your sister Ada was, I just can't believe you're her brother!"

It went on like that. As Ada continued to study as hard as her younger brother played, her school marks continued to outrank his. And as their parents, relatives and teachers continued to praise her record while barely managing tolerance for Mr. F.'s, he dealt with the humiliating difference in the usual way.

His resentment of Ada became resentment of schooling. In his third year of high school he left it to enter the building trade.

Today it's an immense, secret satisfaction to him that unmarried Ada makes $3,500 a year teaching grammar in a run-down school while he makes $15,000 as a prosperous building contractor.

Which wouldn't matter at all if this jealous satisfaction were not making a problem in his family.

Just last night his wife said to him, "Why couldn't you say something nice to Bill about his B in algebra? You know how hard he's worked to get it. Honestly, I sometimes think you don't care if the boys get through high school ro not."

The truth is, Mr. F. doesn't.

Resentment of his sister is still so mixed up with resentment of schooling that he just can't respect it as profitable to his children. Completely unaware of why the obligation to encourage their school work makes him so angry, he shouted at Mrs. F., "Can't a man ever get peace in this house!"

Others of us live out our experience as parents without ever realizing how our early feelings toward brothers and sisters color our treatment of children.

Because our older sister's excuses always seemed to get her out of dishwashing, we are stricter than we need be when our older daughter neglects her chores. Because our younger brother made nothing of his mechanical talent, our son's passion for tinkering with gadgets irritates us.

We're all burdened by such leftover fears and resentments. The wise ones among us make a point of becoming aware of them.

Kingston High Loses Uphill Fight to Poughkeepsie 75 to 69

Syracuse Tops Saugerties for State Biddy Cage Title

Pioneers and Newburgh Enter 'A' Sectionals

By Tony Corapi
Freeman Sports Staff

Kingston High's cagers neatly tucked away their duds after Saturday night's 75 to 69 loss to Poughkeepsie High in Newburgh's new field house to sit back and watch for the results of the intersectionals which start tomorrow.

The Pioneers will be host to Not Terrace of Schenectady in the Kate Walton field house, and Newbugh Free Academy will travel to Troy for a clash with Mont Pleasant. The Goldbacks, after a hard fought battle downed Nyack, 68 to 60 in Poughkeepsie.

Win Toss

The Dutchess squad won the right to play Nott Terrace by winning a flip of a coin, tossed following Saturday's game in Newburgh by G. Warren Kias, DUSO basketball chairman, in the presence of athletic directors Sam Kalloch, Poughkeepsie and C. Everett Stevens Newburgh.

The loss for the Maroons marked the scholastic playing career for six of its players, including George Uhl, Bob Strong, Jerry McDonough, John Bruck, Joe Klonowski and Norm Wells.

But one thing can be said about Coach Jack Gilligan's squad, they bowed out of the 1957 cage picture fighting. They fought an uphill battle from the start, and for a moment in the final period it looked like they would come out of it, but they could get no closer than 63-61 at the five minute mark.

Down 9-0

That was quite an accomplishment since the red-hot Pioneers had a 9-0 advantage before Georgie Uhl converted a foul shot and later a basket after two minutes.

The loss of Hobie Armstrong in the third quarter and Joe Klonowski early in the fourth period on fouls hurt the Maroons. In fact, fouls all along the line hurt the locals and won it for the opposition.

Both teams were even in field goals at 27 apiece. The Pioneers hit 21 for 42 at the charity stripe, while the Maroons connected for 15 for 24.

The Pioneers, hot as a firecracker, since its thumping March 4 triumph over Newburgh and later edged Middletown 83-80 to deadlock third place in three-ways continued where it left off last Thursday night.

1,000 for Kalloch

But victory for Bridge City had a personal significance, especially for the players, who wanted it for Coach Kalloch. It was the likeable 58-year-old mentor's 1,000th win at Poughkeepsie over more than 35 years.

Joe Molinaro, who has been a thorn for the opposition in the last three games, again made the difference for Kalloch's squad. Hitting with an educated one-handed shot, he scored 23 points and kept the Pioneers a step ahead of its surging foes in the waning minutes when it looked like they would be overtaken.

Kelly Stirs Drive

The Maroons didn't start to get rolling until the fourth period. John Kelly sparked the attack with a series of jump shots that whittled the opposing team's 11 point lead to 59-51. Joe Uhl, a freshman who saw plenty of action and did well, hit a layup. After Johnson tallied two fouls, Charlie Williams twisted in a drive-in shot, and the Maroons came within two points, 61-59, on successive goals by Georgie Uhl.

Johnson scored again, but Williams came through with a beauty once again to make it 63-61. Molonaro then hit, followed by McKenna's three-point play. The lead got out of reach after Tom Wall got a string of five points. The Uhl boys closed out the scoring for the Maroons.

Nyack Ties It

Roy Riley, back to full time action after a severely cut left hand, led the Newburgh triumph over Nyack. He tossed in 27 points and controlled the boards for Lanky Masterson's five.

The Rockland County squad tied it at 58-all at 3:08 of the fourth period. But two fouls by Dick Coonan, a goal by Riley and successive baskets by Dick LaGoy and Pete Gamma put the Goldbacks in the sectionals.

Onteora Central came on with a late fourth period rush to upset Cairo Central School, 71 to 57 on the Greene County bandbox Saturday night to close out the Indians regular season with a 14-2 record.

Coach Ed Witko's quintet got revenge for a first game setback, but rallied after a third period lapse which saw the Cairo squad tally 10 straight points before the Indians could hit a basket.

Artie Gribbins started it with a one-hander and after that the Boiceville squad started to click. They were on the long end of a 47 to 39 score at the start of the fourth quarter and then held the homesters scoreless for three minutes and ballooned to a 17-point lead.

Gribbins, UCAL's best, was the big gun for the Indians with 21 points, while Bruce Weiderspiel, had 16. Jimmy O'Connell netted 19 for Coach Art Waldron's squad .

Kingston Beaten, 40-35 by New York In Consolation

A swift passing and well-coached Syracuse team copped the state Biddy Basketball championship Saturday afternoon with a 53-30 victory over Saugerties in the latter's Municipal Auditorium before a crowd of more than 200 persons. The consolation banner went to Metropolitan New York which edged Kingston 40-35 in an interesting affair.

The upstate County-All Stars placed Andy Tursi and John Biachi on the all-tournament team, while Mickey Dodig, the Sawyers ace scorer, Lonnie McAndrews of Kingston, and Dick Bennett of New York round out the squad.

All-Star Picks

Tursi, Biachi and McAndrews were unanimous choices for the team which was picked by a committee comprised of John "Bud" Smith, Jules Albertini, Kingston; John R. Walker, New York and Joe Charles, Syracuse.

The championship trophy was presented to Thomas Minoa, Syracuse coach, by Bill Straub, chairman of the tournament. Oscars were awarded to each player on the winning team, and a consolation trophy went to New York. Each member of the all-star team was presented with an engraved plaque.

Pile Big Lead

The Syracuse squad worked up a 19-5 first period lead and was more than enough for them to coast the rest of the way. Paced by Ken Foudnier and the play-making of Andy Tursi and John Biachi, the winners lead was never in jeopardy. Mickey Dodig had 12.

Lonnie McAndrews, Kingston All-Stars ace, threw in 17 points in the locals defeat. Vito Pesce and big Bill Bennett led the winners in scoring and rebounding.

Harlem Globetrotters Here Tonight

Cage Comics Play Honolulu Riders At Auditorium

The Harlem Globetrotters, who rightfully bill themselves as "the greatest sports show on earth" make their annual pilgrimage to Kingston tonight.

The famed globe-girdling basketball troupe plays the Honolulu Surfriders in a single game attraction at 8:15 p. m. at the municipal auditorium.

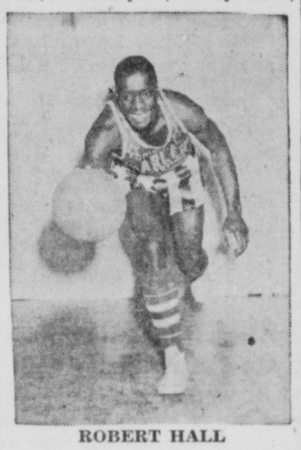

There will be no preliminary because of the lengthy and dazzling halftime floor show which is part of the Globetrotter funfest.

Now in their 31st year, the Globetrotters come to town with a sprinkling of old and new faces and a brand new opponent in the Surfriders.

The Trotter stickout, of course, is Robert (Showboat) Hall, a 6 foot 2 dazzler out of Detroit who inherited the Goose Tatum role of Crown Prince of Basketball. He will be key man in the hilarious comedy routines of the Trotters and stage a dribbling exhibition.

Surfriders Top Team

Coach Louis (Babe) Pressley's 1957-58 squad includes, besides Hall, J. C. Gipson, Henry Kean,

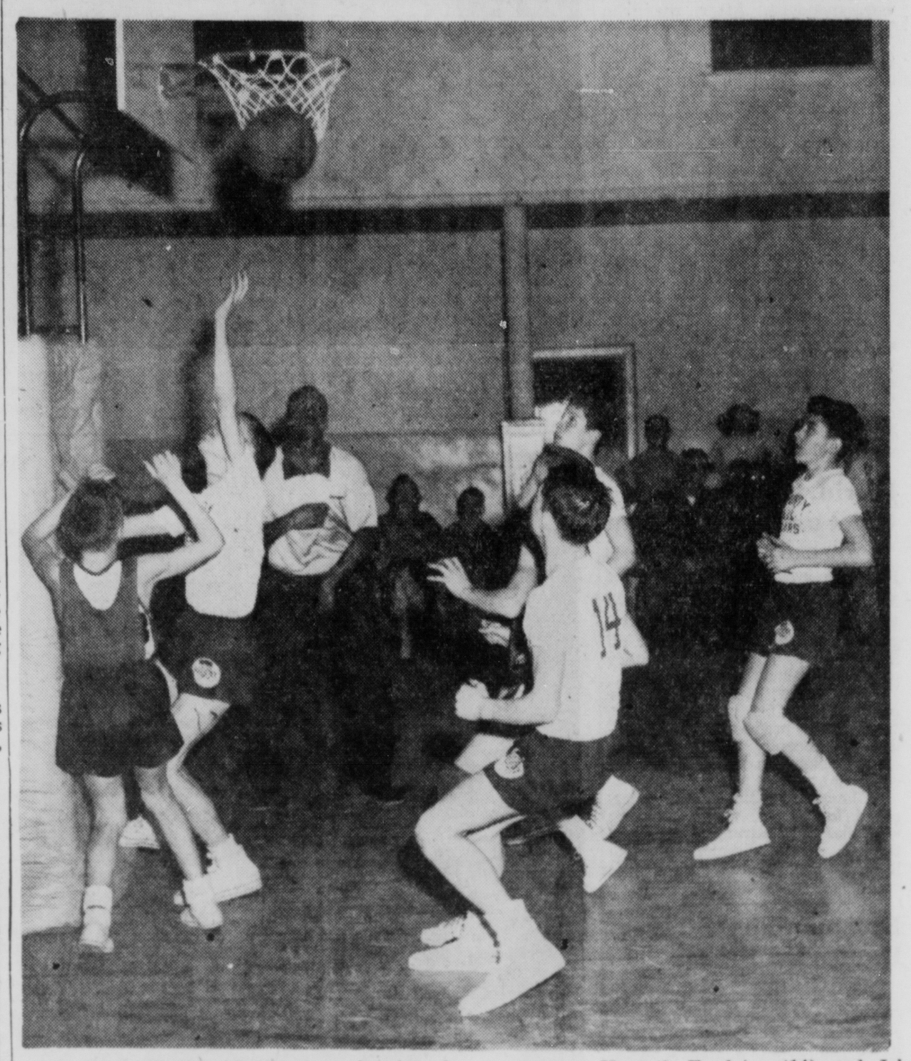

ROBERT HALL

Charles Primas, Bobby Milton, Joseph Bourne and Carl Green.

The Surfriders have been a top notch team on the islands for many years. Their players have been recruited from such sources as the University of Hawaii, UCLA, Willamette University, and high schools in Hawaii.

The top Surfrider is Willie Lee, a 6-foot-5 graduate of the University of Hawaii, who is averaging 22 points a game.

The half-time floorshow features a variety of acts, including jugglers, trampoline artists, ping pong and magicians.

UP FOR GRABS: Waiting to grab rebound after Saugerties John Luchkowec's unsuccessful attempt for goal in Biddy Basketball finals, is Syracuse's Andy Tursi, (12), while upstate teammates, Kenneth Foudnier (14) and John Biachi are ready to assist. Syracuse quintet won state championship in Saugerties Municipal Auditorium. Referee is Bob Magill.

Two Onteora Central Cagers Named to UCAL All-Star Team

Gribbins Only Solid Choice of Coaches, Wiederspiel Selected

Two members of Onteora Central's championship UCAL team have been named to the all-star team which has ben selected by the coaches in the league. Artie Gribbins, the best player in the school's history was the only cager unanimously selected.

He received the maximum 15 points for a first place vote from the circuit's six coaches, while teammate Bruce Weiderspiel got 54 votes, fourth highest among the five named.

Doug Swartz was second in the voting with 83 points. Bill Mustion, Rondout Valley, with 57 first place votes and Henry Hect's 51 points round out the dream team.

Three Seniors

Three of the members of the All-UCAL squad are seniors, while Weiderspiel and Hect will be around next season to give UCAL coaches many uneasy moments.

Tom McCrosson, another member of Coach Ed Witko's championship club, just missed by one point of being on the first team. A junior, he received 50 votes, and joined Phil Bezzaro, Highland; Darryl Eckert, Marlboro, Gene Bilbao, Wallkill, and Bill Smith Rondout Valley, on the second team.

Close Vote

The voting for the first three places was close, with a single vote separating the players. Bilbao, a spark for the Blue Devils, got 39 votes, 9 less than Eckert, while Smith had 38.

The third team comprises Fran Fino, Marlboro; Floyd Diedolf, New Paltz; Bill Phillips, Highland; Bruce Gordon, Onteora, and Bill Bendell, Rondout Valley.

Gribbins is the first player ever named unanimously by the coaches. The unprecedented action was justified in view of the transfer from Jamaica High School's brilliant all-around playing which has resulted in Onteora's fine record during the past two seasons.

He scored 199 in 10 league games, and racked up 285 overall.

The coaches who took part in the balloting were Edward Witko, Onteora; John Meehan, Rondout Valley; Ernie Thompson, Wallkill; Joe Cash, Marlboro; John Northrop, Highland; William Russell, New Paltz.

NAMED—Frank Benkovic, 53, above, of Milwaukee, Wis., was named as the 18th member of the American Bowling Congress' Hall of Fame. He is to be installed on April 24 at the ABC tournament in Syracuse, N. Y. (AP Wirephoto).

Labor Agreement

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—City garbage collectors stayed off their jobs for three days because they thought City Manager Russell Rink shouldn't require them to work in the rain. They returned after a tentative agreement that they must work in "drizzles" but not in heavy rains.

'Made Medicine'

Sitting Bull generally is given the credit of opposing General Custer in the Battle of the Little Big Horn. Actually, Crazy Horse was the Sioux leader in that battle and Sitting Bull acted only as the holy man who "made medicine."

All-Time High

Yardley Hits 2001

By The Associated Press

Balding George Yardley, the prolific scoring ace of the Detroit Pistons, today was virtually a stranger in paradise.

As his club battles to maintain second place in the Western Division of the National Basketball Assn., Yardley scores almost at will in winning and losing causes.

Yardley notched 26 points yesterday as the Pistons bowed to Syracuse 111-90 and lost an opportunity to clinch second place. But the versatile Yardley accounted for his 2,001 point this season—the first player in NBA history to do so.

The loss left Detroit in second place, a game in front of the Royals, who moved up by crushing Boston 121-107.

New York remained in contention for the Eastern Division's last playoff berth by thumping third-place Philadelphia, 123-81.

In the other game yesterday, Minneapolis defeated St. Louis 107-99.

Boston defeated Detroit 108-103 and St. Louis beat Minneapolis 126-123 Saturday.

Five Merchants of Kingston placed fifth with 3190 and Rheingold Beer was seventh with 3183.

Chevrolets Rout Pine Plains, 90 to 73

Koenig Stars in Playoff Opener With 23 Points

Byrne Chevrolets rocked the Ted Dwyer-less Pine Plains Bombardiers with a 30-point first quarter and went on to rout George Steutzle's wandering basketball nomads, 90 to 73, in the opening game of the Hudson Valley Basketball League playoffs last night at the municipal auditorium.

In the absence of the former Columbia hotshot, who failed to show for some unexplained reason, Frank (Yip) Koenig, the Chevvie captain, took up the slack in the dramatics department.

Koenig paced the league champions with 23 points, picked up 14 in the explosive first quarter and 22 of his 23 markers in the first half. This was one of the big quarters of the season for Coach Red Murray's squad.

Kingston led 30-17 at the quarter but the Bombardiers were able to play them even in the second period to trail, 47-34, at the intermission.

Shook Leads Losers

Some sharpshooting by Walt Shook and Don Longobardi enabled the Bombardiers to pull within three points (53-50) in the early stages of the third period, but that was their high water mark The Chevvies bounced back with a strong team effort to win going away. They outscored the Plainsmen, 28-18, in the fourth period and were marching merrily toward the 100-point goal when the final buzzer sounded.

With characteristic balance, five of the Chevrolets hit double figures. Skip Brodhead was runnerup with 16, Ronnie Scheffel 15, Buddy Smith 12 and Big Bill Knott had ten.

Shook potted 19 for Pine Plains and Don Longobardi had 16.

The second game of the series is scheduled Thursday night at the Lincoln Center gym in Poughkeepsie.

By The Associated Press

Other officers designated were Davie Lasher, vice-president; Ed Davis, secretary; Roland Green, treasurer. Named to the Board of Trustees for terms of three, two and one year, respectively, were Marty Hafele, Dick Showers and Al Hoyt.

Al Hoyt was named executive officer with Haven Carnright range officer and John Knot as pistol range officer.

Plans were discussed for the outdoor range which will open shortly The charter is open at present for a few new interested members in rifle and pistol shooting. More information may be obtained from the president.

GOOD INDIANS: Selected for the UCAL All-Star team were two of Onteora Central's fine cagers, Bruce Weiderspiel, left, and Artie Gribbins. The latter was the only unanimous choice of the six league coaches who did the balloting for the three teams. He was the loop's top scorer and spearheaded the team to a 14-2 record.

CYO Cage Teams Defeated By Dutchess in State Semi-Finals

The Ulster County champions in the CYO Jayvee, Tyro and elementary school girls divisions, failed in three attempts to win against Dutchess County squads on Saturday in the Municipal Auditorium.

St. Mary's dropped a 46 to 36 contest to St. Joachims of Beacon in the Jayvee class; the Tyro squad lost 32-20 to Most Precious Blood of Walden, and St. Joseph's girls team was defeated 19 to 7 by St. John's of Beacon.

A poor fourth period was the turning point in the Jayvee loss. After being tied at halftime and the third quarter, the Dutchess County champions scored 14 points to the locals six.

Tom Fiore and Lon McAndrews kept the Kingstonian hopes alive until they were shackled in the last quarter. John Urbank, Mike Seladura and Nat Staniewicz hit double figures for the visitors.

Chuck Davide sparked the St. Mary's squad in the Tyro division, but his effort was not good enough against a well-ballanced Walden combination. He scored 14 points, but like the Jayvee squad they faltered in the final period, scoring only two points.

Newburgh Jewels Quit NY-NJ Baseball Loop

Newburgh Dodger Jewels, one of the original franchises in the New York-New Jersey League dropped out of the circuit Sunday, in protest against the new open roster rule.

The rule which permits unlimited rosters and eliminates territorial rights was passed by a 6 to 1 vote at the January meeting of the league.

Secretary John Babiartz expressed confidence Sunday that an eighth team could be secured, if the Jewels fail to post final entry fees with the league within a stipulated time limit.

The league voted to stage three openers on Memorial Day involving Poughkeepsie, Beacon, Staatsburg, Saugerties and Kingston. Nyack and Spring Valley were granted permission to open their season a week later. Yesterday's meeting was held at the American Legion home at Saugerties.

Durelle and Anthony In Return Go Friday

By MURRAY ROSE
The Associated Press

Tony DiBiase, the fighting geology student who has been finding the boxing road rocky of late, returns to action tonight against Peter Schmidt in an all-New York welterweight 10-rounder at New York's St. Nicholas arena.

The 22-year old DiBiase has been out of action for five months by studies at New York University and cuts suffered in a seventh-round technical knockout loss to Tony DeCola.

Both DiBiase and the 24-year-old Schmidt are aggressive fighters who like to mix it up. DiBiase is an 8-5 favorite.

Light Heavyweight Champion Archie Moore also is slated for action tonight. The 41-year-old 175-pound king goes after his 10th straight victory in an non-title 10-rounder with heavyweight Bob Albright of Los Angeles at Vancouver, B. C.

Yvon Durelle, the brawny Canadian fisherman-fighter who would like to crack at Moore's crown, will be in a good position to get it if he defeats New York's Tony Anthony in their return 10-rounder at New York's Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Anthony was a big favorite in their first meeting last June and he was lucky to get a draw. The vastly improved Durelle has an unbeaten streak of 12, including the tie with Anthony. Tony was flattened in the seventh round by Moore in a title fight last September.

The bout will be broadcast and telecast on NBC at 10 p. m.

Spider Webb, the classy middleweight contender from Chicago, goes after his fifth straight victory in the Wednesday night TV feature (ABC 10 p. m.) against veteran Holly Mims of Washington. The site is the memorial auditorium in Fort Wayne, Ind.

Rory Calhoun, the muscular middleweight contender from White Plains, N. Y., who was knocked out by Webb, meets Gene Hamilton, Huntington, W. Va., at Revere, Mass., Thursday.

Cards Sign Player

CHICAGO (AP)—Dick Aloise, a six-letter man at Syracuse University, has been signed by the Chicago Cardinals for the 1958 National Football League season.

The 235-pound Aloise was an end for the Syracuse grid squad and also played on the basketball team.

College Aid Stalled

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—Whitman College has discontinued financial aid or guaranteed grants to students who have cars on the campus.

"If a student cannot pay his bills in full he can't justly expect Whitman to give him enough financial aid to permit him the luxury of a car," Dr. Chester C. Maxey, college president, said today.

Sandhurst Military Academy is the West Point of Great Britain.

6 Traffic Deaths Reported in State Over Weekend

ALBANY (AP)—The death of a 61-year-old woman in a shooting at Fort Ann involving her son was one of two odd fatalities in the state over the weekend.

Mrs. Demitra Maragof was killed yesterday by a rifle bullet that pierced the inside wall of an automobile trunk and struck her in the back.

Traffic accidents accounted for six deaths between 6 p. m. Friday and midnight Sunday.

Mrs. Maragof's son, Peter, 30, told police he was taking the rifle out of the trunk when it discharged accidentally. His mother was sitting in the rear seat of the car.

Coroner Seymour Hopfn of Warren County withheld a verdict pending investigation.

The Maragofs live in Richmond Hill, Queens, and also maintain a home in Fort Ann.

The second unusual fatality involved a four-month-old boy who became ill and choked to death Saturday at Warsaw.

The boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Neidert of Attica, told hospital authorities that they left their son, Rock, in their automobile for a short time while they were shopping. When they returned, they saw he was ill and rushed him to a hospital.

Dr. G. Stanley Baker, a Wyoming County coroner, issued a certificate of accidental death and said the boy choked after regurgitating.

Other deaths:

Olean — Harold G. Weller, 23, Franklinville, his car and a milk truck collided Sunday.

Albany—Maureen Reith, 5, hit by a truck Sunday.

Modena — William Ballard Jr, 36, a Negro farm laborer of Ireland Corners, near New Paltz, struck by a car Saturday night.

Highland—Gerald York Jr., 25, car went off Route 9W, crashed into a light pole and overturned Sunday.

Narrowsburg—Archie Springer, 24, of Lake Como, Pa, thrown from a car Sunday when the vehicle left Route 97, overturned and burned.

Newburgh — Ronald Spino, 16, car overturned Sunday night.

School Bus Brake Inspection Averts Possible Disaster

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A routine check of school bus brakes at nearby Centerville today prevented a possible disaster.

The check showed someone had cut the hydraulic lines on five school buses normally used to haul 600 Washington Township children to school in Centerville.

Supt. Hadley Watts immediately canceled today's school sessions for all 1,000 pupils in the school district.

Watts said bus drivers found the damage this morning during their routine checks of the buses.

The superintendent said he did not believe the brake lines were cut by juveniles. He declared:

"This was done by someone who knew what he was doing. It probably took more strength than a juvenile would have."

The buses were parked near the elementary school building in Centerville.

Watts said school sessions were called off because more than half the student body was unable to reach school.

Search for Fliers Proves Fruitless

FITCHBURG, Mass. (AP)—A renewed air and land search for three New York men who vanished in an airplane Feb. 12 has proven fruitless.

Some 200 Civil Air Patrol volunteers searched for the missing plane across central Massachusetts and parts of New Hampshire and Rhode Island yesterday.

Seventy-four sortees were flown after a Townsend farmer reported Saturday he remembered a low-flying plane passing over his property Feb. 12.

A widespread search was underway for several days when the plane first was reported missing on a flight from Newport, N. H., to Long Island.

Missing are Douglas D. Robinson, 30, of Garden City, N. Y., and Ira Hyde and Maclellan Reynolds of Lawrence, N. Y. They were returning from Sunapee, N. H.

Fishing Boat Trapped By Ice in Lake Erie

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Circle Fisheries today dispatched two tug boats to try to free a fishing boat trapped by ice floes in Lake Erie about a mile off shore.

Capt. George Fickle and two crewmen left Erie early Sunday on the "Alice L" to test the ice between Erie and Vermillon, Ohio, but were trapped about a half mile east of the Erie channel.

They radioed that there is plenty of food and fuel aboard. The boat is owned by H. C. Lant & Co., Barcelona, N. Y.

Adjourn Questioning Macri for Two Weeks

NEW YORK (AP)—Questioning of Vincent Macri by acting State Investigation Commissioner Arthur L. Reuter in Albany was adjourned today for two weeks.

Reuter wishes to question Macri, self-described legislative consultant, to determine why several telephone calls were made in behalf of Carmine Galente, racketeer, after Galente's arrest on traffic violations near Binghamton in 1956.

The adjournment today as well as several others in the recent past, were caused by Macri's illness.

Chaplains first were assigned to the U. S. Army on July 29, 1775, by a resolution of the Continental Congress.

Benson Defends Price Supports in Albany Talk

ALBANY (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, defending the administration's farm program of lower price supports, says it is designed to help agriculture "meet the needs of peacetime, not depression or war."

"I'm convinced that the majority of farmers are supporting the program as is evidenced by our mail, which shows that 94 per cent of the correspondence favors it," he said yesterday.

Benson was in Albany to speak at the dedication of a Mormon chapel.

Ike Names Cross To Fill Mack Post In Communication

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today nominated Democrat John S. Cross to be a member of the Federal Communications Commission. He succeeds Richard A. Mack, who resigned under fire.

Cross, 53, now is assistant chief of the State Department's telecommunications division. He has been in the communications field for about 22 years, the White House said.

Mack, also a Democrat, resigned a week ago today while under sharp criticism from members of a House investigating subcommittee, and others.

In accepting the resignation, the President called the step wise and told Mack he had impaired his usefulness.

The nomination of Cross, a legal resident of Arkansas, is subject to confirmation or rejection by the Senate.

A native of Birmingham, Ala., Cross has worked for the State Department since 1946.
